REPUBLICAN TICKET.

STATE.

For State Treasurer,
WILLIAM LIVSEY, of Allegheny County.

For Auditor General,
JEROME B. NILES, of Tioga County.

COUNTY.

For Associate Judge,
CHRISTIAN DALE, Sr., of College township

For District Attorney.
H. H. HARSHBERGER, of Bellefonte.

For County Surveyor,
S. D. RAY, of Bellefonte.

It is your duty to vote for each and every candidate on the Republican county ticket. Each candidate is an honest, competent man. No better ticket was ever nominated. Let us show the Democrats the real strength of Centre county Republicanism.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

PUT in one vote for Christian Dale, Sr.

RATS at the public crib is what Representative Landis calls the $10 day Democrats at Harrisburg. Turn them out.

EACH day's idle mummeries in the Legislature add $3,096 to the long account, heaping up the expense of Pattison's extra session.

REPUBLICANS, get out the full vote. This is the only sure way of preventing the Democratic hyenas from getting their paws into the State Treasury.

SHALL Cassidy be Pennsylvania's next United States senator? That is the state issue, and his ambition has already cost our people nearly half a million of dollars.

MANUFACTURERS and workingmen! This is your fight, as it is for the tariff, and if Livsey and Niles are elected, it will stop legislation by a Democratic House. Remember Nov. 6.

REPRESENTATIVE CRAPO, of Massachusetts, says the Republicans of that state will elect Robinson, their candidate for governor, by a handsome majority and that Butler will be buried.

THE Republican Senate has passed eleven resolutions for final adjournment. The Democratic House has sat down on all of them, and thus promoted grab of $485,000 from the State Treasury. "Turn out the rascals."

DON'T forget to vote for Judge Christian Dale and you will elevate a gentleman to the judicial bench who in turn will elevate the position, and make you all,—Democrats and Republicans,—proud of your county and its exemplary, high-principal judges.

THE Democratic issues in this State are Free Trade and Cassidy for United States Senator. There is no mistaking it after an expenditure of $485,000 to make districts for Free Trade Congressmen and Legislative districts for Cassidy's benefit. Turn the rascals out!

MANY Republicans did advocate the passage of the Civil Rights bill, because they are always anxious to give the negroes all the added safeguards that are possible. But that law has been declared unconstitutional, and is of no effect. But it is merely because class legislation is considered unnecessary where the Constitution affords so much security for the rights of all. The negro has the Constitution, as amended by Republicans, to rely on in the maintenance of his rights and he needs no more. Democrats, if in power, would perhaps consider the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments of no effect.

A Word to all Who Love Honest Government!

The Democrats have been in power one year in Pennsylvania.

They came after 21 years of uninterrupted Republican administration.

They did not find any corruption or dishonesty, or we should have heard of it long ago.

But a Democratic Governor did appoint a trickster in the person of Lewis A. Cassidy to the position of Attorney General.

A Democratic Governor did call an extra session of the Legislature to perform a duty which he could not compell them to perform in regular session.

The Democrats in the Legislature did refuse to agree to the McCracken Apportionment bill, which, as fully explained in an article published elsewhere, was the only just and fair apportionment bill offered.

The Democrats did and do commit the enormous offense and crowning folly of continuing the legislature in session until the expense has reached almost half a million dollars.

It is believed that Gov. Pattison is influenced by Attorney General Cassidy who is aiming to become United States Senator.

Admitting that Governor Pattison is a well-meaning official, a man must be judged by the company he keeps.

FOR the office of district attorney the loyal voters have only two men to choose from. One reason for electing the Democratic nominee the first time he offered himself for the office was that he was a man of the people and from the people The same reason holds good in reference to H. H. Harshberger, Esq. Heinle has held office for years and has acquired wealth, which has removed him in a certain sense above that common human sympathy which was at first so strong in his favor. Harshberger is yet a struggling young attorney, who has gained his present position by conquering great obstacles, and if the honor of an election to the district attorneyship is conferred upon him it will aid him greatly. Then he is a young man who perhaps stands higher morally than any one who has ever been elected to that position in this county. He is a devout believer in that higher law from which all laws are derived. He is thoroughly read in the mysteries of his profession, and will pledge himself to attend to all the duties of the office with unfaltering zeal. Voters of both and all parties should elect Harshberger to be the next district attorney.

The Issue.

Aside from the great issues dividing the two great parties in Pennsylvania, there are but two issues to be passed upon by the people. First in importance is the Tariff, which is in grave danger. If Pennsylvania goes Democratic on Nov. 6th, the Free Traders will be rampant, and will press Congress to repeal the Tariff, which was barely saved last winter. All of their leading orators say so. If Pennsylvania goes Republican, not only the Tariff will be saved, but the extra session, which by election day will have cost $485,000, will be dispersed by the mandate of the people. This is the practical way to stop the folly. A solid vote for Livsey and Niles will determine both questions. Let all good citizens see that they do their part in voting, and getting their Republican neighbors to vote.

WHEN this (the Civil Rights) bill was passed in March, 1875, the Republicans knew it was unconstitutional.—Watchman.

And it seems by the votes in the several states in ratifying the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments that the Democrats thought they were also unconstitutional. With wonderful ananimity they agreed in the opinion that it was unconstitutional to give the negroes the right to vote.

A LAST WORD!

A Few Facts for the Consideration of Honest Voters.

The ensuing November election will be one of the most important that has been held in Pennsylvania since '78, not only on account of the importance of electing good and honest men to handle the State funds, but because of its bearing on the great Presidential battle of next year. Defeat this fall does not mean defeat in '84, but a decisive victory in November will show an harmonious party and also show that the old Keystone can be relied upon to give one of its old-time Republican majorities in the coming great national contest. Then how important it is that every voter should be up and doing. Gird on your armor for the battle and see to it that your neighbor is "loaded and primed" also.

This is a time for conscientious work at the polls and we call upon all honest voters, regardless of party, to keep before them

☞ THE FACT

That a vote for the Republican ticket is a vote for the Right.

That a vote for the Republican nominees is a vote for worthy men who have the best interests of the whole people at heart, and no axes to grind.

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote for men who will serve the interests of the Pattison Sham Reform government.

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote in favor of maintaining one of the most profligate administrations that ever disgraced Pennsylvania.

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote in favor of keeping in office a set of shysters whose only ambition is to fill their pockets from the public treasury.

That a vote for the Republican ticket is a vote for the party of progress.

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote for the party of dry bones and crude ideas.

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote for a party that discharges a few poor scrub women from the State House employ and then, with a brass band and fireworks, comes before the people as the party of "economy."

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote in favor of the party of unlimited whisky.

That a vote for the Democratic ticket is a vote for men who spell patriotism "s-p-o-i-l-s."

We urge all honest voters to give these matters their careful consideration before casting their ballots. Every one of the above statements is true and every Democrat knows it. Let every Republican and every voter who loves honest government, work early and late for the success of the Republican candidates. Direct your efforts towards getting out the full vote; a full vote means Republican victory, and the closing of the doors against Democratic sham reformers. Get out the vote.

THE Republican members of the Legislature have been trying to adjourn the Legislature ever since Pattison caused the word to be passed around that he would veto any apportionment that did not suit him, veto any Appropriation bill passed before apportionment, and recall the Legislature if there should be an agreement. So far as the Republicans go, the session was adjourned at the date of the Governor's last veto. The Democrats, however, obey the Governor's dictum, continue constructively in session, pretending to be laboring for apportionment, but sending out squads armed with like instruments to that with which Sampson slew the five hundred Philistines, and making a roaring canvass for the Democratic party at the expense of the State. They say the ten dollars a day behind them lends a wonderful inspiration to the orators.

"OH, for ten minutes of a Democratic Senate," shrieks the Watchman. "Lord forbid!" answer the people. Ten minutes of a Democratic Senate would be more fatal to the interests of this great Commonwealth than a small-pox epidemic "Keep the rascals out."

THE Hon. John Quincy Adams, who has been five tives the Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts, is announced to preside at a Republican meeting shortly to be held in the town of Quincy, his residence.

THE Episcopal Convention has adjourned, which cannot be said of the Legislature.

Get out the Vote.

The only need of this campaign is for the Republicans to get out all of their votes. Organize for this purpose, now! Organize in every district. Don't wait upon others, but young and old alike, bend your energies to this work. It will save the Tariff; it will protect our Workingmen; it will elect a Republican President.

SO FAR as it has any effect at all, the text of Judge Bradley's opinion in the Civil Rights bill case, which has now been published at length, will increase the respect and confirm the acceptance which the decision in question has generally received. The argument it presents is broad, exhaustive and in every way masterly. It covers the whole ground, and it does so in a way that renders irresistible the conclusion at which it arrives.

The issues in the State are vital. We wish to condemn a Cassidy Democratic administration; to testify in favor of Protection to American labor, and to protest against a $485,000 extra session of the Legislature. To do this vote for William Livsey and Jerome B. Niles.

GET out the Republican vote in each and every district! A Republican vote in a Democratic district counts just as much for the State ticket as any other, and all are needed to insure success.

SHALL Free Trade or Protection prevail. This is a national issue which Pennsylvania will pass upon on Tuesday, Nov. 6th.

Pennsylvania Proclaims Liberty to all Men!

Before the Civil Rights bill was thought of at all the Republican party had passed laws in several States practically enforcing the right of negroes to the same treatment as whites on public conveyances and at the polls. The Democratic party then and repeatedly afterward protested against those rights. The records of these acts of the counter-resolutions passed by Democratic conventions are interesting now. It is a little more than ten years ago since Charles Sumner urged the right of Congress under the Fourteenth Amendment to pass a law enforcing the rights of negroes. He died without accomplishing that purpose and it was afterward left to Senator Howe and Gen. Ben. Butler, both astute lawyers, to frame the famous Civil Rights bill which was then passed. The spirit of the same law had, however, been in force in Pennsylvania several years. Witness the following act passed by a Republican legislature and signed by a Republican Governor March 22, 1867:

BE IT ENACTED, ETC., That on and after the passage of this act any railroad or railway corporation, within this Commonwealth, that shall exclude, or allow to be excluded, by their agents, conductors, or employes, from any of their passenger cars, any person, or persons, on account of color, or race, or that shall refuse to carry in any of their cars, thus set apart, any person, or persons, on account of color, or race, or that shall, for such reason, compel, or attempt to compel, any particular part of any of their cars, set apart for the accomodation of the people as passengers, shall be liable, in an action of debt, to the person thereby injured, or aggrieved, in the sum of $500, the same to be recovered, in an action of debt, as like amounts are now by law recoverable.

Three years later the Republicans emphasized their position in a law which provided, furthermore:

That so much of every act of assembly as provides that only white freemen shall be entitled to vote or to be registered as voters, or as claiming to vote or be registered as voters, or as claiming to vote at any general or special election of this Commonwealth, be and the same is hereby repealed; and that hereafter all freemen, without distinction of color, shall be enrolled and registered, and shall, when otherwise qualified under existing laws, be entitled to vote at all general and special elections in this Commonwealth.

In 1881 the Republican Legislature passed a bill making it "unlawful for any school director, superintendent or teacher to make any distinction whatever on account of, or by reason of the race or color of any pupil or scholar who may be in attendance upon, or seeking admission to, any public or common school, maintained wholly or in part under the school laws of the Commonwealth." This act was approved by Governor Hoyt, June 8, 1881.

THE DEMOCRATIC POSITION.

Not less emphatic, although in strange contrast to the above laws, was the following resolution which the Philadelphia Press produces from the records of the Democratic State Convention held July 7, 1861:

Resolved, That the party favoritism or crime, whichever it may be called, that seeks to turn the slaves of the Southern States loose, to overrun the North and enter into competition with the white laboring masses, thus degrading and insulting their manhood by placing them upon an equality with negroes in their occupation, is insulting to our race and merits our most emphatic and unqualified condemnation.

Resolved, That this is a government of white men, and was established exclusively for the white race. That the negro race are not entitled to, and ought not to be admitted to, political or social equality with the white race.

Again, at the Democratic State Convention, held at Harrisburg March 5, 1866, after the negroes were declared free men, the Democrats unanimously resolved:

That the white race is alone entitled to control the government of the Republic and we are unwilling to grant negroes the right to vote.

Then, two months after the passage of the Republican law, another DemocraticStateConvention again put itself on record.

That, each State having under the Constitution the exclusive right to prescribe the qualifications of its own electors, we proclaim as a usurpation and an outrage the establishment of negro suffrage in any of the States by the coercive exercise of Federal power, and we shall resist to the last resort the threatened measures of the leaders of the Republican party to interfere by acts of Congress with the elective franchise in the State of Pennsylvania.

Again the wrath of a Democratic State Convention boiled over in March 5, 1868, and the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That the Republican party is responsible for the delay in the restoration of the Southern States to their just relations in the Union and for the government of the people by military rule. That the purpose of these measures is to perpetuate radical power through the votes of illiterate negroes, and that these are the great primary causes of the present prostrate condition of productive industry in all its departments.

On the 25th of March, 1869, the House Representatives at Harrisburg passed finally the Fifteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution by a vote of 61 yeas to 38 nays, Republicans all voting in the affirmative, and Democrats all voting in the negative.

On March 11, 1869, the Fifteenth Amendment passed the State Senate, yeas 18, nays 15, the Republicans all voting in the affirmative, and the Democrats all voting the negative.

After four months the Democratic State Convention of that year again resolved:

That the Democratic party of Pennsylvania is opposed to conferring upon the negro the right to vote, and we do emphatically deny that there is any right or power in Congress or elsewhere to impose negro suffrage upon the people of this State in opposition to their will.

IF YOU search Centre county from one end to the other you will not be able to find a man so well fitted by nature, experience and education for the office of County Surveyor as S. D. Ray, Esq. He is known to a large number of the people, for after graduating from State College he taught in the country schools. He is a self-made man, and by application and industry acquired a legal education and was admitted to the bar. He has given regular attention to surveying ever since and has been employed by parties who required the services of a skillful surveyor. He is endowed with pluck, energy and excellent health and is thus thoroughly equipped for the work. Then it seems somewhat out of place to elect the son of the President Judge to the position which is so immediately under the surveillance of that high official. For high intelligence and mental acquirements the young man who is the Democratic nominee cannot be excelled, but he has not the experience, the rugged health nor the natural adaptability for the business of surveying that the Republican nominee possesses in such a large degree. S. D. Ray will not be above his business; but there is grave reason to believe that the ambitious young son of the President Judge will be. It would seem then that it is to the interest of every voter in Centre county that Ray rather than Orvis shall be chosen for County surveyor.

The issues in the State are vital. We wish to condemn a Cassidy Democratic administration; to testify in favor of Protection to American labor, and to protest against a $485,000 extra session of the Legislature. To do this vote for William Livsey and Jerome B. Niles.

THE Watchman is of the opinion that people should not vote for Hon. J. B. Niles, Republican candidate for Auditor General, because he is an advocate of temperance. We do not think that many voters who consult their own interest will object to him on that score.

ELECTION day is not the second Tuesday of November, but the first, or 6th of the month. The law says it shall be held on the first Tuesday following the first Monday. Pass the fact around, for many voters are under a misapprehension. Republicans! remember November 6th.

Poetry.

THE BOOK KEEPER.

It was an ancient bookkeeper,
And he was tall and slim;
Though his face was mild he rarely smiled,
His clothes were dark and prim;
And everything about his desk
He kept exceeding trim.

He always hung his hat and coat
Upon the self same hooks,
And laid his ruler, pen and ink
In their respective nooks,
And the only exercise he had
Was footing up his books.

Each day upon the self same hour
He took his lofty seat,
And bent his body and his mind
His labors to complete;
And blot was neither on his fame
Nor on his ledger sheet.

The music of his pen was heard
From morn till even tide;
Up columns vast his eyes were cast,
Then down again with pride;
Quite pleased was he though he saw his work
Increased and multiplied.

The cash that o'er his fingers came
Each day was something grand,
And yet no schemes to bear it off
By him were ever planned,
Although you saw with half an eye
That he wrote a sloping hand.

He had no wife, he made no friends,
His joys and cares were few,
And his dearest hope from day to day
Was to kep his balance true.
A good world this if every man
The latter thing would do.

He never sighed when little ills
His way of life would cross;
And o'er the errors of his youth
He showed no vain remorse;
But set down all that came along
To profit or to loss.

One day the creditor of all
Dropped in for his amount;
He found the old man at his post,
Though low ran nature's fount;
The books were closed and he was borne
Up to his last account.

AN AUTUMN WHINE.

Now comes the melancholy days
When drops the leaf and dies,
And he who wears his summer suit
Doth take a drop likewise.

Oh, much bewails the shiftless swain
The changes fall days bring,
And much he loves the Benjamin,
He spouted in the spring.

The married man doth tremble,
And earnestly he prays
That heaven his good wife will spare
The seal skin dolman craze.

And as his children gather round
And eye their clothes forlorn,
He grieveth that the jersey sack
Can't all the year be worn.

The air is waxing shrewder,
He marvels in his soul
If the manipulators
Will raise the price of coal.

But the gunning man mendacious
Hies gaily to his lair,
And not a continental
Doth the party-goer care.

OCTOBER.

Gay October, mad October!
Dancing 'midst the falling leaves,
Singing 'round the heaped-up sheaves,
Laughing, laughing, never sober—
Comes no thought of sadnes o'er thee
For the bright days gone before thee,
For the dark ones coming after?

Soon thy brief, glad reign is ended;
Scarce thy face shall we remember,
When the gloom of drear November
On our spirits has descended.
Therefore change thy smiles to singing,
Stay thy nimble footsteps flying,
Cease thy airy, thrilling laughter!

Our Story Teller.

Leonore Dallas.

From the Evening Call.

"Leonore you surely do not think of going to the ball? The whole city knows, and—had we not best remain at home?"

"No, auntie; our costumes are prepared and, fortunately, paid for."

With slow scorn in the clear voice, "We will go."

"I am not! Nevertheless, Aunt Ina, we will go."

The speakers were Leonore Dallas and her Aunt. On that very day the news had gone like a flash of lightning through the city that Leonore Dallas, the proud, beautiful girl who was Arthur Lane's promised wife, had been beggared by the disappearance of her guardian, in whose hands was all her wealth and the rumor was proven true.

She stood in the great drawing-room, the sinking sun shining redly on her dusky hair; a line of pain was on her brow, a haunting, yearning shadow in her grand, black eyes. Prouder than was her wont she looked, and yet a fierce unrest was gnawing at her heart.

For he had not come. Would he love her less, that she could bring him but her woman's heart, her perfect life and passionate love?

With the shadow of doubt, a pang fierce as death seized her heart, and one perfect hand was pressed above it suddenly. Then with a touch of the agony she felt, in her Spanish eyes, she turned from the window.

"Auntie," she said, "if my reign is over I have the desire that Cataline had, to fall royally. None will look for the suddenly-impoverished Leonore Dallas in to-night's gypsy queen."

"No, dear, they will think you crushed by your loss."

"The morning may find me so," she said, sadly, as she glided from the room.

The mask-ball was at its height, when, with a proud, free step, a gypsy queen, accompanied by a dowager duchess, entered.

Her short skirt of black velvet was aglitter with fringes of gold and golden chains holding tiny bells of ivory; her corsage of scarlet satin, was richly embroidered and laced with gold, and from her shoulders hung a scarlet cloak, with heavy, glittering fringe; jewels shone on her bare arms and flashed from her flowing, dusky hair, which showered, with but a ripple in its splendor, almost to her feet. And on the morrow those gleaming gems would be all that Leonore Dallas could claim of the wealth that was once her own.

A knight of the times of Louis the Thirteenth stepped forward, and doffing his broad, plumed hat, offer-her his arm. She took it, and joined the dancers, while the duchess found a seat apart.

Laughing gayly, pretending to read her partner's palm, Leonore was still watching, watching passionately for Darnley, the worthless husband of Scotland's fair queen; for in that garb Arthur Lane was to appear there, as he had told her; and when she declined to tell the character she would assume, he had smiled into her eyes, and told her that the eyes of love were sharp, and he would find her, dress as she would.

Was he there? She had finished dancing, and was out on the balcony with her cavalier—out in the spring-time moonlight, which was almost clear as day.

Lightest of words flowed from her lips, and her companion was forgetting all else in the charm of her presence when voices from below broke on the air and, looking downward, she saw descending the steps of the lower veranda a red-cross knight and—how her heart bounded!—and Darnly, her lover.

"It is too confoundedly warm inside," said the knight in petulant tones, "and the affair is a complete bore. I have failed to recognize anybody."

"Thanks," was the reply in the voice which she so loved. "Thanks, Stanford, you recognized me. But, then, I'm not Miss Montague. I, also, am seeking for one I have not found as yet."

"You mean Miss Dallas. By the way, Lane, is this rumor true that old Brent has absconded and taken her money with him? They told me it for a fact, and that your engagement is broken. That's not so, is it? I'd never respect you if it was."

Leonore bent over the railing, holding her breath to hear the reply. A life, the life of her youth, was at stake, and she forgot everything in the anxiety of her listening, while her cavalier was pulling the flowers in his button-hole to pieces, wondering at her silence.

"Stanford," came the answer, "does the world say that? Then tell it from me that my engagement to Miss Dallas is not broken by the fall of her fortune. Tell it I love her, not for her wealth, but her worth: and since she has not changed I love her still, and she is still my promised bride. I was called from the city yesterday and only returned this evening. The rumor met me almost at the threshold, and I hastened to her to learn she had just left for the ball. I have sought her among the guests but failed to find her. Standford, can you help me?"

Leonore heard no more. With hands clasped closely about her breast and eyes full of thankful tears she turned to her cavalier.

"Oblige me," she said, in her rich, clear voice, "by going to the lower veranda and sending Darnley here. I must see him immediately."

And then she was alone, the moonlight falling tenderly upon her dusky hair, as she bent her head and breathed a soft thanksgiving.

"Lady, you sent for me?"

She turned, holding out both hands. He drew back a step, not touching them.

"Arthur," she said, "do you know me?"

"Leo, my darling!" and then his arms were about her, her head upon his bosom, and she burst into tears.

"Leo," he flung aside his mask and gently drew off hers. "Leo, you are not grieving? Surely you do not doubt my love?"

"Not now, Arthur, but oh, I did to-day, when every hour went by and you did not come. Forgive me, love, 'tis past."

With a tenderness inexpressive in his gray eyes he drew the girl's slight form closer and, bending, touched the young lips with his own.

"Look up my dearest and most beloved," he said, softly. "Look up and let me tell you how much dearer you are to me to-night, when I know that you come to me without a dower."

The crimson lips of Leonore quivered as she lifted her great Spanish eyes to his handsome face.

"Arthur," she whispered passionately, "I love you to-night as I never did before; and oh, I am so happy."

Suddenly merry voice rang on the silence and a resurrected Juliet, a bunconeer, a hunter and an Indian princess appeared on the balcony, laughing and holding their masks in their hands.

Leonore and Arthur had resumed theirs and stood quietly in the moonlight, the Dallas diamonds sending forth their flashes from Leonore's black hair.

"Unmask," cried Juliet. "It is unmasking hour, and I must see your face, fair queen."

"It is one you have often seen," said Leonore, recognizing the speaker, and drawing off her mask.

"Miss Dallas! Here—to-night!"

A slow wave of color stole to Leonore's proud forehead, as she slipped her hand through the arm of her betrothed.

"You seem surprised," she said slowly, a touch of irony in her cultured voice. "You have heard of my loss of fortune. Miss Vere, perhaps it was left for me to be first to tell you that to-night I am not poor, but far richer than the past has ever seen me."

"And I," said the princess, laughingly, "am hungry. Come, they are going in to supper."

The flesh of the whale is said to be very wholesome when pickled, and a new industry in this line is growing up along the Atlantic coast.

Apportionment—Who is Right?

From the Philadelphia Press.

The prolonged extra session of the Legislature and the abortive and costly struggle over the apportionment have disgusted and outraged the people. Half a million dollars have been shamefully wasted in a foolish and futile performance. It was as plain three months ago as it is to-day that there could be no agreement, and that the continuance of the session was simply a vain, useless and expensive travesty of all common sense. The Democratic Administration and representatives who, in the face of this truth, have blindly and blunderingly persisted in keeping up the miserable farce, are responsible for this wanton extravagance.

But back of this question lies the deeper issue as to which party is right and which party is wrong on the merits of the proposed apportionments. No matter which is right and which wrong, so long as they refused to agree, it was idle to go on with the performance. But if it shall appear that the party which, in spite of this manifest and hopeless disagreement, forced a wilful waste of half a million on the State, also refused to acquiesce in fair measures, then it stands guilty of double-dyed wrong. And if it shall appear that the Republican Senators and members offered just apportionments, and only insisted that these just measures should be accepted or the question submitted to the people, then their position is doubly right. The ultimate issue turns on the right or wrong of the apportionments proposed by the two parties. Which party is in the right on this question?

Now, in relation to the apportionment of senatorial districts—for more than three months the Legislature has stood at a dead-lock between two bills—the one passed by the Senate and supported by the Republicans; the other passed by the House and supported by the Democrats. These two bills agree in the arrangement of forty out of the fifty Senate districts. As to the forty districts there is no difference, no dispute, no issue. The whole difference between the two bills comes in the remaining ten districts, and the entire issue is thus narrowed to the merits of the proposed apportionments of these districts.

The territory which is to be divided into the ten districts all lies together in the centre of the State. This disputed territory comprises twenty-two counties, of which twelve are Republican and ten Democratic. The twelve Republican counties have a population of 393,250 and a Republican majority of 9097. The ten Democratic counties have a majority of 331,132 and a Democratic majority of 8689. Thus the Republican counties have 62,118 more population than the Democratic and 408 more majority, making the territory preponderatingly Republican. And yet—mark the extraordinary fact—the Democratic bill carves this undeniably Republican territory into seven Democratic and only three Republican districts, while the Republican bill, aiming to make as even a division as is consistent with the clear Republican majority, divides it into six Republican and four Democratic districts. Is any further argument necessary? Does not the plain statement carry absolute conviction? Could anything but a gross gerrymander produce the result presented in the Democratic bill? And is not the Republican division manifestly fair on its face?

The issue on the Congressional apportionment is equally clear. The 36 Republican counties of the State have a population of 2,812,241. The 31 Democratic counties have a population of 1,470,548. The ratio for a member of Congress is 152,959. Divine this ratio into the population of the Republican counties, and it shows that they are entitled to 18 members of Congress with a fraction. Divide it into the population of the Democratic counties, and it shows that they are entitled to 9 members with a larger fraction. The division of Congressmen, then, should be 18 Republican to 10 Democratic, and this is precisely the division which the Republican or the McCracken, bill makes. Follow that bill through its details, and it will be found to conform to the requirements of the Constitution and the act of Congress, and to all the conditions of a fair apportionment. It equalizes the population of the districts through the State with remarkable mathematical exactness, and it equalizes the average political majorities so that they vary less than a hundred. On the other hand, no Democratic bill, can stand the application of what all agree are the true tests of fairness.

To the ultimate and decisive question, then, as to which party is right on apportionment, these facts present a conclusive answer. They have not been answered, and they cannot be. The Republicans in the Legislature have offered fair Senatorial and Congressional apportionments, and then have held that, if the Democrats will not accept these just measures, it is better to adjourn, and save the half million dollars of needless expense on a useless session.

The Democrats in the Legislature have offered unfair and partisan apportionments, seizing more than they were justly entitled to, and then have insisted that if the Republicans would not accept these wrongful measures they should be compelled to remain in session and be forced into it. The issue is sharp and clear. Let the people decide between them.

"Were you in the late war?" asked a veteran of a badly demoralized citizen, who came hobbling down the street on a crutch. "I don't know how late you mean," was the sad reply. "She gave me this one last evening before tea."

Geordie dancing around, and very mad—"Oh, ma! ma! every lick you hit me makes me badder and badder!" The flogging goes on Geordie—"Oh, ma! every lick you hit me makes me gooder and gooder!"

The Fall Bonnet.

"The world," says a popular modern novelist, "judges of a woman by her bonnet;" and while this aphorism somewhat overstates the case, there is no doubt that the bonnet is figuratively, as well as literally, the crowning feature of woman's dress. For it is, so to speak, the frame in which the face is set, and on it more than on any other adventitious circumstances the beauty of the face depends. A becoming bonnet will go far to redeem an otherwise shabby or ill chosen toilet. The most perfect costume ever contrived by French fingers cannot counteract the effect of an unbecoming bonnet. Therefore, the woman who, at a millinery opening, persists in trying on fifty bonnets, if need be, until she finds one to suit her, is—provided that she buys it when found—rather to be admired than ridiculed; is, indeed, a woman to be commended as understanding her duty to herself and to her neighbor.

Such infinite variety in shape and coloring is offered this season that no woman, provided she has even a limited sum to expend for the purpose, has any excuse for buying an unbecoming bonnet. The fancy for gray will doubtless lead many to make guys of themselves, since gray, to be successfully worn, demands a clear complexion in the wearer, yet dark dove gray lit by scarlet forms an admirable setting for a sallow face, and for those who cannot venture on light gray there plenty are of warm browns, glowing reds and soft creamy tints. The blondes have decidedly the best of it in the myriad array of greens and blues, purples and reddish plums, which appear in fashion's ranks, nay more they can with impunity don the new dahlia red, so becoming to clear brunettes. But light gray is death to blondes of the uncertain flaxen-haired type, and fuchsia red is almost as trying. As for the peachy cheeked, golden haired blonde she may wear anything she chooses; and the same is true in a still greater degree of that rarest type of blondes with hair the color of ripe wheat and complexion like that of a bisque doll.

DAZZLING COLORS.

The private view of the novelties prepared for forthcoming openings leaves one dazzled with excess of color and with vivid contrasts—it is as though one had lighted on a brilliant flock of birds in a Brazilian forest. Feathers are all the rage, flowers are nowhere, excepting, indeed, the velver appliques and the pretty chenille flower pompons, whose soft balls nod from flexible stems thickly clustered together. Not tropical birds only are seen, however; there is a great fancy for soberer fowls in gray and brown, for barnyard pigeons, swallows, seagulls, the small gray hawk, the brown partridge, and Jenny Wren wearing her "plain brown gown. Even the much abused English sparrows finds himself for the moment in fashionable company though less popular than the smaller son sparrow. The dark gray cedar bird, with scarlet tipped pinions, is effective under the new color regime, and human skill manufactures all sorts of beautiful anomalies.

A Natural Mistake.

Mrs. Jamieson is a Brooklyn lady, and she had a very sore finger, caused by striking the wrong nail while laying carpets. She had procured the finger of an old kid glove and used it for a finger stall. Thereby hangs a tale.

While cleaning house the other day she disturbed a mouse and it ran into one of the bureau drawers which was lying on the floor. Mrs. Jamieson is not a timid woman by any means, but woman-like, she called for her husband. He was shaving himself and he came in with his face covered with lather.

"'Smatter?" he asked, with his mouth full of soap.

"There's a mouse in that drawer and I want you to help me kill it," she answered.

Mr. Jamieson isn't at all fond of mice, and he'd rather go without them than pay an exorbitant rate for them, but he didn't want to appear afraid, so he went out into the kitchen and procured littly Tommy's base-ball bat. He climbed up on top of the bureau, and told Mrs. J. to "fetch on her mice."

"I'll lift the clothes out," she said, "and when the mouse jumps you squash him."

She grabbed the clothes out one by one, and finally Jamieson saw the mouse jump. Then he struck at it, upset the bureau and went through the looking-glass, while Mrs. J. went into the kitchen to howl.

They don't commune at the same table now, for what Jamieson mistook for the mouse was the finger-stall on Mrs. J.'s finger.

Operations of a Swedish Firm.

The Swedish firm of Nobel Brothers, who have developed the Baku petroleum district of Russia, employ 7,000 workmen on a large fleet of steamers and 1,400 oil trucks. They are building a town in which to lodge their servants, and have adopted a semi-co-operative system, giving everyone a share in the profits, and allowing all to invest their savings in the business. But the Pall Mall Gazette understands that their gigantic operations are likely to be thrown into the shade by an American capitalist who is about to lay a pipe 661 miles long, by which the oil will be conveyed across the Caucasus, from Baku to Batum, on the Black Sea.

An Intelligent Servant.

A gentleman in Austin has a new servant, and the other day he undertook to coach him in regard to certain crediters, who invariably hounded him the first of each month with aggravating bills.

"Now," said he to his servant, "if a man calls for me to-day, you tell him I am not at home."

"Yis, sor," replied the man.

Fearing a misunderstanding in some way, he again said:

"Now, Pat, what will you tell the man when he calls?"

"Till him I am not at home, sor."

"No, no, blockhead, tell him that I, myself, am not at home."

"All roight, sor."

"Now, what will you say to him?"

"I, mysilf am not at home."

"Pshaw! Tell him your boss is not in. Understand that, donkey? Now, what will you say?"

"Your boss is not in. Understand that, donkey?"

"Fool! That's not right. Say to him, 'I am out.' Can you do that?"

"Yis, sor."

"Well, let's hear you."

"I am out."

"Thunderation! Can't you understand? Tell him your master is out. Now, what will you say?"

"Your master is out."

"No, you don't say anything of the kind, you ignoramus. Tell the man that I have left the house."

"Certainly, I'll tell him that I have left the house, but he won't believe me when he sees me in the house."

"Pshaw! Can't you simply say that I have gone out for a walk?"

"Thin he'll think I am a lying, sor."

"How so?"

"Why, whin I tell him I have gone out for a walk—"

"Great Potiphur! You are the stupidest fool I ever knew. See here, I don't want to see any of the people that will call to-day, and I want them to understand that there is no use of them calling, as they won't find me at home. Can you give them an ambiguous answer in your own words?"

"Is it an ambiguous answer? I should say I could, if you jist lave it to me."

"Well, what will you say?"

"I'll say when they ax me if you are in: 'Yis, the boss is in, but he has committed bigamy, and gone off on a wedding tour wid a widdy woman, and if they don't arrest him for the ambiggity, gez I'll niver see the color av his hair again.' That'l fetch 'em."—Texas Siftings.

Synod and Presbytery.

On Monday, October 22, a committee on the Huntingdon Presbytery appointed by the Synod of Pennsylvania at Pittsburg, reported concerning the heresy trial of Rev. John W. White, which we copy from the Pittsburg Telegraph as follows:

When Rev. E. E. Swift arose and began to read the report of the committee on the Huntingdon Presbytery a hum of interest went over the Synod. Rev. John W. White, who was lately convicted of heresy, was a member of this Presbytery, and there was great curiosity to hear what the committee had to say on this subject. The committee approved the report with the following exceptions:

In the case of Rev. John W. White the Presbytery erred, in that after having carefully and patiently tried and convicted the brother of gross departure from the faith and doctrine of the church, they permitted him to withdraw from the Presbytery without censure, while a motion to suspend him from the ministry was pending. The Presbytery should have inflicted such censure as the grave errors of this pastor demanded, according to discipline of the Presbyterian church. In taking this exception the Synod appreciates the motives which manifestly influence the members of the Presbyteries in dealing as they did with their co-presbyter and the extreme gentleness and forbearance which they manifested toward him. But their departure from the strict constitutional made of proceeding must not be accepted as a precedent. The Synod the more contents itself with a single exception in view of the healthy stand for orthodoxy and for adherence to our standards, which the Presbytery took in the case and which is especially commended by the Synod.

Signed—Elliott E. Swift, J. Addison Henry, Cyrus L. Pershing, Samuel C. Logan, Thomas H. Robinson, R. M. Patterson.

The Oldest Woman in the World.

London Lancet.

At Auberine-en-Royens, a village in the Dauphine, situated between Valence and Grenoble, may be seen an old women living in a hut in a narrow street who has reached the extraordinary age of 123 years. She has no infirmities except slight deafness, being in full possession of her mental faculties.

According to her marriage certificate, she completed in January last her 100th year since marriage. She was a "cantiniere" under the First Empire, and had two sons killed in the battles of Friedland in Spain. She is supported entirely by the alms given her by visitors, who go from great distances to see her as an object of curiosity, and her neighbors help her to do her household work.

She lives almost exclusively on soup made with bread, to which is added a little wine, and sometimes a little brandy. Dr. Bonner, who practices in the neighborhood, states that she is never ill. Her skin is like parchment, but she is comparatively upright, and is of scrupulously clean habits.

A Big Failure in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—To-day's sensation in business circles is the failure of John N. Glidden, secretary of the Republic Iron Company. Late yesterday the company filed a claim against him for upward of $110,000, on which he confessed judgment. As security the company holds his stock, the market value of which is about a quarter of a million, but it is understood that considerable of this is pledged for other debts, and questions of priority of claim are likely to arise. Mr. Glidden stated this morning that his failure is solely attributed to shrinkage of values in legitimate iron business. His indebtedness to the company is for ore purchased for his own account and sold to other parties and for transportation. He says that in a year and a half he has lost over three hundred thousand dollars from this cause. He will call a meeting of creditors and ask an extension of time. Mr. Glidden's embarrassment will not affect the Republic Iron Company, the captial stock of which is $500,000.

Aged People Assaulted.

CLINTON FALLS, Ind., October 24.—Last night a stranger called at the farm house of James Crawford, an aged man, who lives alone with his wife near here, and asked for some supper. While Mrs. Crawford was preparing a meal the man struck her down with a club. At the same time a companion of the stranger knocked Mr. Crawford down with a club, and after stealing $15 they left. The old man recovered consciousness and gave alarm. Latest reports state that both of them will die.

A Few Items from Scotia.

Under date of October 18, a friend at Scotia sends us the chief events in that vicinity as follows:

Carnegie, Bros. & Co., "Limited," are doing a flourishing mining business under the instructions of Mr. George Leander, superintendent of the mining department. They have at present two excavators in operation and are shipping from two hundred to two hundred and twenty-five tons of ore daily.

Mr. E. L. Bergstresser, Centre county's oldest photographer, assisted by Mr. W. S. Searfoss, is at present taking photographs of the ladies and gents in this vicinity, and, at his leisure, he is taking views of the mines and machinery. Mr. Bergstresser understands his business and is doing splendid work.

The Rev. Mr. Skinner, colored, preached in the M. E. church on Sunday evening, the 14th, to a large congregation. The crowd was so great that part of the congregation had to remain on the porch. The reverend gentleman delivered a sermon which touched the hearts of many in the vast congregation. Mr. Skinner is an excellent speaker.

Miss Emma Stine, one of Buffalo Run's pleasant young ladies, is at present visiting her sister, Mrs. Switzer.

Forty Persons Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 23.—An accident occurred this morning on the Louisville and Nashville air line. As a passenger train from Louisville was about six miles from East St. Louis it struck a broken rail. The engineer felt the shock and put on the brakes, and all the coaches passed over in safety except the last two, a passenger and a sleeper, which were both crowded These two tipped over and were dragged along a short distance when the coupling broke. The scene was terrible, and reports place the number of injured at over forty, but only one fatally, so far as known. The scene at the accident was heart-rending. About sixty men, women and children occupied the coach and sleeper. The women shrieked and the wounded groaned, and blood flowed profusely from the numerous cuts which inmates received. It was a long time before the women could be quieted.

The number of injured as officially reported, is thirty-seven, but of these there are about ten who are badly hurt, and one fatally—Mr. Anthony, of Providence, R. I. Mr. Stern, a clothing merchant of Philadelphia, received a severe scalp wound and a violent contusion; Mr. Bacon, of Louisville, contusion on the right side of the face, and an abrasion of the skin; Mrs. Wiedner, of Canton, Mo., a very severe scalp wound and shoulder and knee hurt. The wounded were brought to East St. Louis, while those who were not badly hurt went on to their destination; others of the wounded were brought to this city. Mr. Anthony received a frightful scalp wound. He cried, "Oh, my poor wife and children" when he became unconscious and delirious,

The French in Tonquin.

PARIS, October 23.—The Yellow Book recounts the operations of the French forces at Tonquin. It says that their position has materially improved. They now can move freely to all points in the Red River delta, and hold all the strategic points in that territory. Mandarins who resist the French authority will be removed by envoys. King Annam and the people are regaining confidence The Annamite troops disbanded and the Black Flags retreated. The French army now only awaits reinforcements to complete the pacification of the country. The book also gives at length details of the negotiations with China, which have been conducted, it says, with good temper on both sides, France firmly demanding the non-interference of China in Tonquin affairs and withdrawal of her troops from that country, and China indicating her willingness to come to some arrangement, but declining to accede to the demands of France.

The Circus Riot in Dover.

DOVER, Del., Oct. 23.—The prisoners arrested for taking part in the O'Brien Circus riot on April 21 last came up for trial in the Kent County Courts to-day. They are William Tomlinson, Thomas C. Benney, William Honey, William McCollum, Charles Butler, Charles M. Ferris, Ed. S. Ferris, Dan Tomlinson, Frank Pyle, William Smith and E. Camac. Attorney General Gray appears for the State and the defense have for counsel George V. Massey and J. L. Wolcott. Senator Saulsbury is also aiding the defense. About an hour was consumed in getting a jury, and night came before the State was through with half of its witnesses. Charles Henderson, an injured circusman, is present as a witness.

Two More Deaths.

WILKESBARRE, October 24.—Hattie Moss, another victim of the Squib factory explosion, died this morning from her injuries. Lizzie Edwards is slowly sinking and her death is expected at any moment. It is thought by the phyicians that the other victims cannot possibly survive very many hours. They are suffering the most excruciating pain. The funeral of Mary Morris and Hattie Moss will take place tomorrow. Mary Quinn will be buried on Friday from St. Mary's church, this city. The disaster has cast a gloom over the entire community.

By one of the Fools.

"Why—pardon my remarking it—but, my dear old friend, how changed you are. I declare you must have lived very high or very fast to have drawn the color out of your hair and the spring out of your step in this fashion."

Looking at the sunset on the river from the grounds of his place up the Hudson, my school chum—who is one of the best known mining experts in the country—answered: "It wasn't fast living did it but dyspepsia and nervous collapse, from over-work. I ought to have stopped years before I did. I was a fool. But who isn't, if you come to that?"

"I am thirty-five years old," writes Mr Charles H. Watts, of West Somers, Putnam Co., N. Y., "and had suffered from dyspepsia for fifteen years. Went the round of the current remedies, falsely so called. Listlessly and without hope I gave PARKER'S TONIC a trial. The result may be stated in three words: it cured me. I endorse now without hesitation. It is the dyspeptic's refuge.' Mr. G. R Cole, druggist, of Carmel, N. Y., certifies to the truth of Mr. Watts' statement.

HISCOX & Co., proprietors, call especial attention to the fact that this preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will hereafter be called simply PARKER'S TONIC. As a principled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers by substituting inferior articles under the name of ginger, and as ginger is really an unimportant ingredient, we drop the misleading word

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of HISCOX & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

BAD, BAD, BAD BLOOD. 3

Some blood is bad because it is poor and weak. Some is bad because it contains impurities. Some men have such bad blood that the wonder is it does not poison the mosquitoes who come to bite them.

The rich red color of good blood is owing to the iron which is present. Blood which has not enough iron in it is always unsatisfactory. The persons in whose veins it circulates cannot be said to enjoy good health.

The efforts of expert chemists to produce a preparation of iron which can be assimilated with the blood have resulted in that perfect preparation which is an important part of Brown's Iron Bitters. It is the only one which freely enters into the blood. It is the only one which accomplishes the desired good.

Weak, poor, thin blood may be made rich and strong, and impure blood may be purified by the use of that Great Iron Medicine, Brown's Iron Bitters.

How Watch Cases are Made.

The many great improvements introduced in the manufacture of the Jas. Boss' Gold Watch Case, have led to similar improvements in the making of silver cases.

Under the old methods, each part of a silver case was made of several pieces of metal soldered together, requiring a great amount of cutting and soldering, which softened the metal and gave it the pliability of lead rather than the elasticity of silver.

Under the improved methods, each part of the Keystone Silver Watch Case is made of one solid piece of metal hammered into shape. The advantages are readily apparent, for every one knows that hammering hardens the metal while soldering softens it.

To test the superiority of the Keystone Silver Watch Case, take one of 3 oz. weight, press it squarely in the center when closed, and it will not give, while a case of same weight of any other make will give enough to break the crystal. The Keystone Silver Watch Case is made only with silver cap and gold joints.

Send 2 cent stamp to Keystone Watch Case Factories, Philadelphia, Pa., for handsome Illustrated Pamphlet showing how James Boss' and Keystone Watch Cases are made.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

The Fire Record.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 25.—Mundorf's planing mill, on the south side, together with five two-story frame dwelling houses and one million feet of lumber, was entirely destroyed by fire this morning. The flames were discovered shortly after 8 o'clock, and originated in the furnace room of the planing mill, where the furnace was being fed with shavings. The fire spread with such rapidity that the employes barely escaped with their lives. The fireman and the engineer received severe but not serious burns. In twenty minutes the entire mill, together with the dwellings and lumber, was burning fiercely, and in an hour nothing remained but smouldering ashes. The dwellings were occupied by seven families, who were unable to save any of their household effects, and consequently suffer severely. The loss will aggregate $55,000 on which there is an insurance on the mill and lumber of $16,000. The household goods were uninsured.

The remains of Frank Siebert a workman in the mill, have been found in the ruins, burned to a crisp.

A HOTEL BURNED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The South Park hotel, a somewhat noted road house in a fine resident district on the southern outskirts of this city, was burned this morning. The few inmates in the hotel at the time were compelled to make a hurried exit. Loss, $25,000; partly insured.

SEVEN STOREHOUSES BURNED.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 25.—Seven storehouses at Edward were burned last night. Loss $15,000; partly insured. The sufferers are: John H. O'Deneal, B. Griswald, John Berker, and Cook Gaddis.

A $60,000 FIRE.

EAST SAGINAW, Oct. 25.—Bliss, Brown & Co.'s saw mill, two salt blocks and 1,000 barrels of salt and two drill houses were burned last night. Loss, $60,000; insurance, $43,000.

The Huntingdon Car Works.

Special to the Altoona Tribune.

HUNTINGDON, October 26.—The employes of the Blain Bros., proprietors of the suspended car works, held a meeting last evening to determine what action should be taken in regard to the proper protection of their rights and interests. A committee of five was appointed, consisting of Alexander Port, Charles Albright, James H. Boring, Philip Brown and William Thomas, for the purpose of making an estimate of the value of the firm's personal property, and to consider the advisability of purchasing the same at sheriff's sale in case the execution creditors refrain from bidding. Geo. B. Orlady and M. M. McNiel, Esqs., were employed as counsel to act in conjunction with the committee. The sale of the property, which takes place on the 30th instant, it is thought, will be attended with great sacrifice.

Dr. Taylor Gets a $20,000 Verdict

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—In the case of Dr. G. Fayette Taylor, who sued the Elevated Railroad Company for damages sustained by the running of their trains past a house he had rented for hospital purposes previous to the erection of the road, the jury awarded the plantiff $20,000 damages. Upon a previous trial the jury disagreed.

Mangled by the Cars.

MT. CARMEL, Oct. 28.—A fearful accident occurred on the Reading railroad a few miles from this place yesterday. A team laden with household goods was being driven from Ashland to Mt. Carmel, and on the way the brake of the wagon broke, and when descending a steep hill at a point where the turn-pike crossed the railroad the driver found that his brake was useless. The mules ran down the hill at a rapid pace, and as the team reached the crossing it was struck by an express train on the Reading road, which was going at a high rate of speed. The contents of the wagon were scattered over the road. One of the mules was instantly killed. Mrs. Valentine Doepner, one of the occupants of the wagon, and Jacob Crow, the driver, were thrown under the cars.

The engineer managed to reverse his engine and by a miracle the man and woman escaped sudden death. Valentine Doepner, the husband of the woman, who was riding on the rear end of the wagon, was thrown a distance of about twenty-five feet and was covered by the pieces of the demolished wagon and the scattered goods, but escaped with severe bruises. As quick as the train stopped a number of gentlemen alighted and took the man and woman from under the cars. Both bled profusely and an examination by a physician from Shamokin showed them to be seriously and probably fatally injured. The woman's right leg was broken in two places and her body terribly cut. The teamster's injuries are internal. The train was delayed over an hour.

A Sea Monster.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A special from Panama tells the following: Capt. D. Seymour, of the American whaling bark Hope On, which anchored in the bay on the 7th, from a four months' cruise, with 400 barrels of hump-back on board, reports having encountered a strange marine monster off St. Elmo. This is one of the Pearl Island group, situated within 40 or 50 miles of this town. The boats were out, waiting signals from the vessel as to the direction in which the whales were heading. Suddenly the water broke at a short distance from the boat. Capt. Seymour was steering, and he made ready to catch a whale. But to his surprise and that of the men in the boat, who ceased pulling and looked around when he shouted to them, an animal somewhat like a horse slowly rose out of the water and then dived, apparently alarmed at the sight of the boat. None of those present had ever seen an animal like it before, although they are all old sailors, and they agree in saying, as do another boat's crew, who saw it the following day, that it was an animal which has never been previously encountered. The glance which Captain Seymour obtained enables him to describe it as about twenty feet in length, with a handsome horse-like head, with two unicorn-shaped horns protruding from it, with four legs, or double-jointed fins, a brownish hide profusely speckled with large black spots, and a tail which appeared to be divided into two parts.

Senator Pugh's Son Killed by the Indians.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Times special from Casa Grande confirms the report of an engagement between Indians and Mexican cavalry near that place. The Mexican authorities refuse to tell the number of wounded and killed, but from an American surgeon at that place it is learned that the hospital is full. Surgeon Torron, of Chihuahua, is there attending the wounded. The Indians have broken camp and separated into roving bands of eight to ten and are raiding the surrounding country. It is believed most of them have gone into the State of Sonora. The natives are in great fear. A special to the Times shows that they are crossing the line on the Mexican Central on an old trail some distance below here. They killed Senator Pugh's son. The place named in the special is forty five miles north of Chihuahua.

Miners Becoming Discouraged.

PITTSBURGH, October 26.—A mass meeting of the coal miners of the third and fourth pool of the Monongahela river district was held at Brownsville to day to induce the men in the seven pits, who had accepted the reduction of one fourth of one cent per bushel, to come out again. The men who had gone to work were not represented, and it was announced that the reduction had been accomplished at another pit. For this reason no action was taken. The miners are discouraged and it is probable that all will accept the reduction.

A Female Lawyer in Trouble.

WASHINGTON, October 26.—The commissioners of pensions has discovered irregularities in the practice of Belva A. Lockwood, the female lawyer, who has a large number of cases pending before the pension bureau, and it is understood that the question of suspending her from practicing before the bureau is now being considered by the commissioner and the secretary of the interior.

Four Seamen Drowned.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Oct. 25.—Captain Finley, Wm. Fowler, M. Whalen, and another seaman, were drowned by the capsizing of a schooner. Wm. A. Finley, a mate, clinging to the upturned boat, drifted ashore twelve hours after being pushed into the sea.

A DETECTIVE'S EXPERIENCE.

His Successful Undertaking and Escape from an Impending Fate.

Buffalo, N. Y., News.

One morning several years ago, just as the dull gray light was beginning to show itself in the east, a small band of men might have been seen deployed about a house on Ferry street, in Buffalo. There was nothing special either in the dress or appearance of the men to indicate their intention, but it was plain that they had business of importance on hand. Suddenly a man appeared at one of the windows, took in the situation at a glance, and, swinging himself outward with wonderful quickness, scaled the roof the house. This man was Tom Ballard, the notorious counterfeiter; and, armed to the teeth and fully realizing his situation, he defied justice and the officials below him. Some of the officers, knowing the desperate character of the man, proposed to shoot him until he was killed, but one of the number promptly protested, and declared that if his brother officers would assist him to ascend he would capture the man alive. Accordingly he began the difficult and dangerous task, and succeeded in bringing his prisoner to the ground in safety.

The man who accomplished his task was Mr. Thomas Curtin, the present superintendent of city police of Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Curtin is a man who is known by every prominent detective and policeman in America, and he stands pre-eminently in the front rank of his profession. Quiet and gentlemanly in appearance and manners, he possesses a courage combined with marked physical powers, that make him the terror of evildoers and the pride of law-abiding citizens. Few people can realize, however, the trials, exposvres, and even privations, to which the members of every municipal police and fire department are exposed. Compelled to be on duty at uncertain hours, subjected to the most inclement weather, and often necessitated by the nature of their duties to protracted undertakings, they endure a nervous and physical strain that is terrible. Such was the experience of Mr. Curtin in former days; and it is not surprising that he found himself suffering from a mysterious physical trouble. In relating his experience to a representative of this paper he said:

"At times when I was on duty I would feel an unaccountable weariness and lack of energy. My appetite was also uncertain and my head seemed dull and heavy. I did not fully understand these troubles, but supposed, as most people suppose, that I was suffering from malaria. I tried to throw off the feeling but it would not go. I thought I might overcome it, but I found I was mistaken, and I finally became so badly off that it was almost impossible to attend to my duties. I have known any number of men in the police and fire departments of this country who have been afflicted as I was, and I doubt not there are to-day hundreds similarly troubled who, like myself, did not know the cause, or really what ailed them."

"Your present appearance, Mr. Curtin, does not indicate much physical debility," said the interviewer as he looked at the 220 pounds of bone and muscle standing nearly five feet eleven inches in height before him.

"O, no; that is altogether a thing of the past, and I am happy to say that for more than a year I have enjoyed almost perfect health, although I now realize that I was on the road to certain death by Bright's disease of the kidneys and traveling at a very rapid pace."

"How did you come to recover so completely?"

"That is just what I want to tell you, for I believe it may be of great service to many others in my profession, who may possibly hear of it. I began the use of a popular remedy at the earnest solicitation of a number of friends in this city, and found to my great gratification that I began feeling better. This feeling continued and I gained in strength and vigor until now I am perfectly well—and wholly through the instrumentality of Warner's Safe Cure which I believe to be the best medicine for policemen, firemen, railroad men or any other class of people exposed to danger or change of weather, ever discovered. Since my recovery I have recommended it everywhere, and never knew a case where it failed either to cure or benefit. I would not be without it under any consideration, and I am positive it is a wonderfully valuable and at the same time entirely harmless remedy. Indeed, I see that Dr. Gunn, dean of the United States Medical College of New York, indorses it in the highest terms."

"So you experience little difficulty in the execution of your duties now, Mr. Curtin, do you?"

"None whatever. Our department was never in better condition than at present."

"And do you never have any fear of some of the desperadoes whom you have been the means of bringing to justice?"

"Not in the least. Such men do not try to retaliate, partially because they have not the courage, but oftener because they respect an officer who does his duty."

The policemen, firemen, letter carriers and other public employes in this country have a particularly trying life. When, therefore, a simple and pure remedy that can restore and sustain the health of all such men is found, it should be cause for great congratulation, especially when recommended by such a man as Superintendent Thomas Curtin of Buffalo.

$489,000 is the round cost of Cassidy's extra session of the Legislature on Nov. 6th, election day. "Turn the rascals out" by voting the Republican State ticket. This will do it in short order. Nothing else will rebuke the grabbers for $10 a day.

After Twenty Years.

Recently we reprinted from the Raftsman's Journal an account of the finding of human bones in a field belonging to a Mr. Walborn, of DuBois. It is suspected that a murder was committed there twenty years ago when the place was a dense forest, but nothing is known of any such an occurrence at the time. There are parties in this county, however, who intend to investigate the matter more thoroughly and they believe their investigations will result in developments showing that a foul murder was committed at that time. The names of the parties it is perhaps better not to give at present.

—On Monday, the 22d, while Mr. George Harvey of Flemington was in Nittany Valley and as he was getting in his buggy his horse frightened at something and ran away, breaking the buggy and cutting a severe gash on the right side of Mr. H's head.

—The number of responses received in answer to the circulars sent out by the lecture committee of the Y. M. C. A. is not very encouraging.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

N. W. AYER & SON'S AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ANNUAL FOR 1883.—We have received a copy of this work for the year 1883. It is issued every year by the firm of N. W. Ayers & Son, and contains a carefully prepared list of all the newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and Canada. It is also an advertising medium which many enterprising publishers have availed themselves of to speak of the merits and claims of their journals to the patronage of the advertising and reading public. It gives many other valuable statistics, such as population of States, territories, counties and towns, political majorities and Greenback vote; gives a short description of the resources and industries of countries, and many other items of information valuable to the advertiser who wants to select a field to advertise his business in. It is a valuable addition to the library of every newspaper office, for in it can be found a correct list of all papers published, their size, circulation and class. Although the circulation figures may not be always exactly correct, yet judging from the figures as given of this county, if all are as near correct, it will be near enough to satisfy the most exacting; and if the size of a subscription list determines the value of a paper as an advertising medium, near enough for all practical purposes. We think, however, that it would be some improvement to the work if the names of the editors and publishers were given. We think this would make it still more valuable as a book of reference. This is all the fault we have to find with it. The work is well bound and is an excellent work. It is sold for the low price of three dollars.

The North American Review for November is on our table. It contains very interesting articles, among which is "Limited Suffrage in Rhode Island," in which an able defense of the Constitution in this respect is made, and it would be profitable for every voter to read it. Then there is an article on "The Government and the Telegraph," shewing reasons why the Government of this country should not operate a telegraph; an article on John Brown and many other subjects of much interest. The North American Review should be in the house of every citizen who wants to encourage good literature and keep up with the times. Address The North American Review, No 30 Lafayette Place, New York. Single numbers, 50 cents, or $5.00 a year.

THE NOVEMBER CENTURY.—In illustrations, important articles, and American fiction, the November Century attempts to raise its own standard of excellence. Among the engravers of the number, five are women, who contribute seven engravings. In technical skill, Mr. Cole has hardly surpassed the full page engraving of Wyatt Eaton's portrait of Modjeska, accompanying a study of Modjeska's Shakesperian characters, by J. Ranken Towse. T. Johnson's engraving from Thos. Sully's portrait (owned in Philadelphia) of Queen Victoria at the age of nineteen, is the frontispiece of the number also, with Mrs. Oliphant's sketch of the life of the Queen, is printed a copy of a recent portrait. A particular interest attaches to Cole's engraving of the full-page portrait of Tourgueneff, since it is an authentic likeness from life, painted within the last two years by E. R. Butler, specially for The Century. Alphonse Daudet contributes reminiscence of "Tourgueneff in Paris," the paper having been written early last summer. An important contribution to the history of the war, and a most entertaining anecdotal paper withal, is the account of "The Capture of Jefferson Davis." It is by Burton N. Harrison, Esq., of the New York bar, who was the Confederate President's private secretary. There is also a very interesting article on "The Bull Fight," well illustrated by well executed cuts. This magazine has few equals and no superiors in the world, and the November number is fully up to the standard.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR NOVEMBER.—Is the first number of a new volume, and is full of promise of good things for the coming year. Louisa M. Alcott has the first half of a bright story called 'Sophie's Secret;" J. T. Trowbridge contributes a thrilling biographical sketch of Captain Mayne Reid, and Frank R. Stockton furnishes one of his inimitable fairy tales, entitled "The Beeman and his Original form." Then, appropriate to the Thanksgiving season, is a down east sketch by Hezekiah Butterworth, with the taking title, "A Thanksgiving Dinner that Flew Away." Another article of much more than ordinary historical interest is the paper on "The Origin of the Stars and Stripes," in which the author, Edward W. Tuffley, here for the first time satisfactorily explains the reasons for the adoption of those world-famed emblems for our national banner and coat-of-arms. There is also, in time for production during the holidays, a cleverly written and easily produced Christmas play, called "Among the Pines." A varied assortment of verses, jingle, and short stories, with pictures, Smedley, Bolles, Share, Rose Mueller, D. C. Peters, and others, completes the number.

One of the neatest and best magazines we receive is the Peacemaker. It advocates universal peace. It should be in every family. Price, $1.00 a year. Address, Universal Peace Union, 402-4-6 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The American Angler is just the magazine for fishermen. We do not see how they can do without it. It tells all about fish and how to catch them. Address, The Angler Publishing Company, 252 Broadway, New York.

Godey's Lady's Book for November is an excellent number of this most excellent fashion magazine. Godey's is one of the oldest and best magazines of its class in the world and the present number is replete with beautiful engravings and very interesting reading. The ladies are, we think, the best judges of fashion books, and our folks pronounce Godey's the best there is. We recommend it to all our lady readers. Terms, $2.00 per year. Address, J. H. Hanlenbeck & Co., 1006 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—The November number of Harper's comes to us as full of interesting matter as ever. This is, without exception, one of the best monthlies issued from the press. It is always rich in illustrations, and this number is in no particular behind its predecessors. It numbers among its readers and patrons the most intelligent and cultured people in the land. No person that could read at all could fail to be much improved by the constant perusal of Harper's. We will furnish Harper's Magazine, in connection with our paper, at a reduction from publishers prices, as we will also any other publication.

The Wide Awake is one of the most interesting magazines for children that is published. It is filled with such reading as will put only good thoughts into the minds of the young, and the illustrations are beautiful and chaste. Parents should furnish such books to their children; the influence for good which they may have is beyond calculation. We say to our patrons, send for the Wide Awake for your little ones. Address, D. Lothrope & Co., Boston, Mass. Terms $2.50 a year, and just as cheap as it can be.

We have received from J. M. Hoffman & Co., No. 141 Smithfield street, Pittsburg, Pa., two sheets of music, of their latest publication, entitled 'Good Luck Waltz," of which three large editions have been sold within the last two months, and the "Sky Lark Waltz," which is a beautiful imitation of the "Song of the Sky Lark," and of great musical effect. We may also add that this piece is highly recommended as a splendid piece for practice on the piano for advanced pupils.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED—COPP'S U. S. SALARY LIST AND CIVIL SERVICE RULES.—Our many readers will welcome the solid information contained in the 160 pages of this recently-issued book. It is prepared by Henry N. Copp, a lawyer of Washington, D. C. All the Government salaries are given from President Arthur's $50,000 to postmasters with $500, officials of the Treasury, Interior, War and Navy Departments, Custom Houses, post offices, and fully 20,000 federal offices arranged by States and Territories. Specimen examination questions for admittance to the Civil Service throughout the country are added. The price of the book is only 35 cents. Every young man and woman who has not decided upon a calling in life needs this publication. The Government offers lucrative and honorable employment. Every citizen who expects his Senator or Representative to offer him a Government position, by possessing this manual can decide at once whether to accept or decline the offer. It may save candidates from declining fat offices through wrong information. Should the almost impossible event happen that the Democratic party should carry the next Presidential election, every Democrat in the country would want this book. Politicians alone have heretofore held this knowledge. The people now have a chance to learn into whose pockets their money goes, and how the Nation's income is expended.

The Musical Herald is a book that should be in the hands of all lovers of music. It is full of interesting reading for those who make the study of music a business, or who follow it for pleasure. In each number there are several pieces of good music worth more than the price of the magazine, which is only $1.50 a year, or 15 cents a number. The proprietors say they want an agent in every town in the county. Address, Musical Herald Co., Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

HUNTINGDON COUNTY, SS.

And now, August 23rd, 1883, in compliance with and in obedience to the command contained in the 10th section of the act of Assembly approved August 7, A. D. 1883, entitled "An Act to designate the several Judicial Districts of the Commonwealth as required by the Constitution." It is hereby ordered and decreed that the time for holding the regular terms of the Courts of the counties of Centre and Huntingdon, comprising this (the 49th) Judicial District, shall be as follows:

For the county of Centre. A regular term of the Court of Common Pleas, of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, a Court of Quarter Sessions and an Orphans' Court, shall be begun and holden at the Court House in the borough of Bellefonte, on the 4th Monday of January, April, August and November of each year at 10 o'clock A. M., each of said terms to continue for a period of two weeks.

For the county of Huntingdon. The first regular term of said Courts shall be begun and holden at the Court House in the borough of Huntingdon, on the 2d Monday of December of the present year, to continue for a period of two weeks, to which term all writs now issued or hereafter to be issued shall be made returnable. And hereafter the regular terms of said Courts shall be begun and holden at the said Court House in the borough of Huntingdon, on the 2d Monday of February, April, September and December of each year, at 10 o'clock A. M. Each of said terms to continue for a period of two weeks, for the trial of all cases, issues, charges, prosecutions and indictments which may be by law triable in said Courts. The Jury Commissioners and the Sheriff of the said several counties are directed to draw from the wheel containing the names of jurors a panel of Grand Jurors to the number of twenty-four, to serve as Grand Jurors for the first week of each of said terms, and a panel of Petit and Traverse Jurors to the number of thirty-six to serve as Jurors for the second week of each of said terms, and the Sheriffs of said counties are directed to summon them as directed by law. And for the summoning of the said jurors, the Prothonotaries and Clerks of the said Courts in the respective counties are directed to issue to Sheriff and Jury Commissioners the proper writs of venire as required by law. The Prothonotaries and Clerks of Court of the said counties are directed to make such changes in the headings of the Dockets, and in the return day of any writs heretofore issued, to the next term of Court in the said counties as may be necessary to comply with this order. A copy of this order shall be published in three newspapers published in the county of Huntingdon, and in three newspapers published in the county of Centre for a period of thirty days immediately preceding the holding of the first Court under this order in each of said counties. The Prothonotary of the county of Huntingdon is directed to enter this decree in full upon the Continuance Docket of the Court of Common Pleas of said county and to make out and certify under the seal of Common Pleas a true and correct copy of this decree, to be transmitted to the county of Centre, there to be entered and filed by the Prothonotary of the county of Centre among the records of the Court of Common Pleas. By the Court, JNO. H. ORVIS, P. J.

NOTICE is hereby given, "That every person executing office of justice of the peace who shall hold any office or appointment of any profit or trust under the government of the United States, or of this State, or of any city or incorporated district, whether a commissioned officer or otherwise, subordinate officer or agent who is or shall be employed under the Legislative, Executive or Judiciary Department of this State, or of the United States, or of any city or incorporated district; and also that every member of Congress or State Legislature, and of the select or common council of any city, or commissioners of any incorporated district, is by law incapable of holding or exercising, at the same time, the office or appointment for Judge, Inspector or Clerk of an election of this Commonwealth; and that no Inspector, Judge or other officer of any such election shall be eligible to any office to be then voted for."

At all elections held under the laws of the Commonwealth, the polls shall be opened at 7 o'clock a. m. and close at 7 o'clock p. m.

TICKETS TO BE VOTED.

The qualified electors will take notice of the following acts of Assembly, approved the 12th day of March, 1866; "An Act regulating the mode of voting at all elections in the several counties of this Commonwealth."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same. That the qualified electors of the several counties of the Commonwealth, at all general, township, borough and special elections are hereby authorized and required to vote by tickets, printed or written, or partly printed or partly written, severally classified as follows: One ticket shall embrace the names of judges of courts voted for, and to be labeled outside "Judiciary;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all State officers to be voted for, and be labeled "State;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all the officers voted for, including the office of Senator and members of the Assembly if voted for, and be labeled "County;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all township officers voted for, and be labeled "Township;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all borough officers voted for, and be labeled "Borough;" and each class shall be deposited in separate ballot-boxes.

Given under my hand and seal, at my office in Bellefonte, this 3d day of October, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Eighty-three, and in the One Hundred and Sixth year of the Independence of the United States. T. J. DUNKLE,
Sheriff of Centre County.

Rev. Samuel Henry's Sermon.

We have heard so many expressions of praise regarding the sermon delivered by Rev. Samuel Henry, of the Lutheran church of Mifflinburg, in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, that we made special inquiry regarding it. The congregation that listened to his admirable effort was very large and he enlisted and held their undivided attention from the beginning to the close of his remarks. His theme was "Christ the Head of the Church," which was calculated to draw forth the brightest thoughts and most eloquent words from one who had made a special study of the subject. He made the best of the opportunity. His sermon was scholarly and logical. And the expression of thought was not only chaste and beautiful, but also strong and eloquent. With Christ as the adorable head of the church militant and triumphant what purity and excellence should characterize all its members. His familiarity with Scripture is quite remarkable. The Presbyterians and all others who have had the pleasure of listening to Rev. Henry would be pleased to have him return, as he showed himself to be one of the most talented among the ministers who attended the memorial services.

—The cause of it is now fully explained. "Electrical changes" are the cause of all the quarrels, according to a "scientific" exchange. It says: "More quarrels arise between brothers, between sisters, between hired girls, between school girls, between clerks in stores, between hired men, between husbands and wives, owing to electrical changes through their systems by lodging together night after night under the same bedclothes, than by any other disturbing cause. There is nothing that will so derange the nervous force as to lie all night in a bed with another person who is absorbent in nervous force. The absorber will sleep and rest all night, while the eliminator will be tumbling and tossing, restless and nervous, and wake up in the morning fretful, peevish, fault-finding and discouraged. No two persons, no matter who they are, should habitually sleep together. One will thrive, the other will lose. This is the law as laid down by a scientific exchange." —Ex.

—The L. H. Express states that the County Commissioners, not finding any person willing to collect the tax duplicate of Howard township, sent it to a leading Democrat in Howard borough to find some person who would collect it. The aforesaid Democrat retained possession of it until after time for paying taxes to secure a vote expired, then returned it. In the mean time he found out all Democrats who would have to pay taxes or not vote and sent their taxes to the County Treasurer. The Republicans couldn't pay their taxes because they could find no collector.

—Commencing November 1st, a rule (at present in effect upon all the principal rail lines of the West and South) limiting the weight of single pieces of baggage will be adopted upon the Pennsylvania Railroad. On and after the first proximo agents of that line will decline to receive for transportation any piece of baggage exceeding 250 pounds in weight. The rule requiring a charge for the weight of all baggage in excess of 140 pounds for each passenger will remain in effect, as before.

—Our New York letter, which, however, we don't often have space to publish, has this item of local interest: "Col. Jack Haverly is coming to the front again. His mines are beginning to look up, and he has found a few friends with confidence enough in his luck and pluck to back him in a new theatrical enterprise. A friend of his told me that before the first of December Haverly would have a theatre of his own."

—There were several buildings omitted from our list of building enterprises in Wednesday's NEWS, among which is the building for the Steam Heating Company. And if our object had been to enumerate all improvements, we would have included in our list all the arrangements incident to steam heating purposes, which would increase the total to about $100,000.

—Mrs. Dare, of Dare & Whiteman, has just returned from Philadelphia, having purchased a beautiful line of millinery goods of the latest styles, and they respectfully invite their friends to call and examine the goods which will all be opened this week.

—Whoever makes out the report of the return of coal sent over the B., and S. S. Branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad for this paper isn't alive to the requirements of a daily journal. It frequently arrives so late as to be practically useless.

In the Name of Charity.

One day last week a man came to this place accompanied by his son, a lad about 13 years of age. Suddenly the man disappeared, leaving the lad homeless and friendless. One or two nights the lad slept in the Nail Works, and had nothing to eat except what was given him by the men from their own dinners, which they bring in buckets. The men sent him to Wilmer Crow, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who, at his own expense, has found a place for the boy to eat and sleep. The boy seems willing to work and is strong and active for his age. Here's an opportunity for the charitable. Who will aid the lad in the way that will be the most beneficial to him?

The shades of night were falling fast,
As through High street a youth did pass,
A youth who wore for little price,
A nobby suit so neat and nice.
V. S. C., "L."

His brow was bright, his answer pert,
A hotel clerk's diamond flashed from his shirt
And like an E flat cornet rung
The accents of a well known tongue—
V. S. C., "L."

"O, stay," the maiden said, "and press
A handsome shawl or pretty dress
Upon me, before you leave this part."
The youth he answered with a start—

What our Competitors Say.

How can the Bee-Hive afford to sell Table spreads at 50c. if we have to pay 75c. for the same in large quantities?

How can the Bee-Hive afford to sell White Blankets for $1.50 when we have to pay $2.00 for them at wholesale?

How can the Bee-Hive afford to sell White Blankets at $3.00 when we have to pay $3.50 for them at wholesale?

How can the Bee-Hive afford to sell White Blankets for $6.00 when we have to pay $7.00 for them at wholesale?

Another Faith Cure.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—Indiana has another miracle to report. An account from Lafayette says that Agnes Walter, a young lady residing at No. 57 Spencer street, that city, was Saturday morning unable to move and was blind; now she walks and can see. Eight years ago she was seized with cerebro-spinal meningitis, which left her lower limbs paralyzed. She had gone to Oldensburg, Indiana, to enter a convent, and was taken ill the second day after she had arrived. In a few weeks she was taken home, and for eight years she has been a constant sufferer. The best physicians of the city have treated her and pronounced her incurable. Dr. S. T. Yount has been her physician for three years. She was in convulsions as long as two or three weeks. Dr. Yount states that she presented a most terrible appearance. For weeks at a time she had no nourishment whatever. Recently a young lady friend, Miss Kinsman, returned from Europe and brought with her some water from the fountain of Our Lady of Lourdes. This Miss Walter has been applying and drinking. A nine days' season of prayer was begun by herself and other members of the church. This terminated on Saturday morning, when she was removed in an unconscious condition to the church. She at length was revived, took communion, and instantly she could see and walk unaided. She believes that prayer did it. Dr. Yount and others pronounced it a most marvelous case. Last evening, when the doctor and reporters called, she walked across the room to show that she was indeed cured. Her case seems miraculous, and there are many more besides herself who are familiar with the case who attribute it to the power of prayer.

The Presbyterian Synod.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 22.—During to-day's sessions the committee on the records of the presbytery of Huntingdon reported, recommending acceptance with the following exceptions: Namely, that in the case of the Rev. John W. White the presbytery erred in that after having carefully tried the brother and found him unfit for the position of minister on account of his past record and grave departure from the faith and doctrines of the church, they permitted him to withdraw from the presbytery without censure. The report of the committee claimed that a more pronounced expression of disapprobation to Mr. White's course and orthodoxy should have been made by the presbytery of Huntingdon in dispensing with his services. The committee at the same time thought the synod should appreciate the gentleness and forebearance manifested by the Huntingdon presbytery in dispensing with Mr. White. The report is signed by Elliot E. Swift, Cyrus L. Pershing, Samuel C. Logan, Thomas R. Robinson and R. M. Patterson. The report was accepted.

Lord Coleridge in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Chief Justice Coleridge attended service this morning at the Epiphany Church. In the afternoon he drove out, accompanied by Justice Blatchford, of the United States Supreme Court, and Lieutenant McClellan, and left cards for Secretary Frelinghuysen, Chief Justice Waite and Justice Gray. The party also drove to the Soldiers' Home and called on the President, after which they visited the various points of interest about the Soldiers' Home grounds. In the evening Lord Coleridge, his son and Lieutenant McClellan dined with the British Minister. The party will leave Washington early to-morrow for Philadelphia.

Obituary.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., October 22.—Hon. Elisha Foote, father-in-law of ex-United States Senator General John B. Henderson, and commissioner of patents during the administration of Andrew Johnson, died of heart disease this morning at his son-in-law's residence. The latter is in Europe.

HARTFORD, Conn., October 22.—A dispatch from Paris announces the death there this morning of the wife of John Russell Young, minister to China. Mrs. Young was a niece of the late Governor Jewell.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Captain Mayne Reid, the well-known novelist, died at his residence in London last evening after a short illness, aged 60 years.

Official Returns from Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22.—Secretary Newman furnishes the following totals of the vote for governor as the result of the late election: Foraker 347,064, Hoadly 339,593, Schmucker 8,361, Jenkins 2,785. Total vote, 721,464. Hoadly's majority, 1,383. Majority for judicial amendment, 33,413. The second amendment fell short a majority 39,543. The regulation amendment received 98,050 votes.

Rapid Growth of Texas.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—The assessment rolls of 155 counties received thus far show an increase in taxable values in this State of over $95,000,000 above last year, with fifteen counties to hear from, which will doubtless make a total increase of $100,000,000.

Foreign Flashes.

ROME, Oct. 24.—The report of the committee of the Geodetic association was adopted, after an animated debate. The report favors the universal adoption of the Greenwich meridian, and also recommends as the point of departure of the universal hour and cosmopolitan dates, the mean noon of Greenwich. The conference hopes, if the world agrees upon a unification of longitude and hours by accepting the Greenwich meridian, England will advance the unification of weight and measures by joining the Metrical convention.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The general impression produced by the Yellow Book is that all the negotiations between France and China have been exhausted, and that war or successful mediation is inevitable.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Delegates representing 41,000 collieries, in Yorkshire, have resolved to insist upon the demand for an advance in wages.

Cardinal Manning says that the Pope has shown a thorough willingness to meet Bismarck's advances and those of the German government everywhere, so far as he could do so consistently with the principles of the church, which has been very liberally construed, that Cardinal Manning believes Bismarck is much more inclined to be friendly to Rome than he has heretofore been, and that he will accede to any measures likely to result in a peaceful arrangement of the differences.

Six Girls Meet with a Horrible Death.

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 23.—A terrible accident occurred at the Kingston squib manufactory at noon to-day, by which six girls, employes, were killed outright and three probably fatally injured. The girls were employed in the room where there was a wood fire and by some mishap a spark fell into a keg of powder which was standing by and a terrible explosion followed. The girls were literally torn to atoms. The suffering of the injured ones is terrible to behold. Vast crowds gathered around the scene of the accident immediately after its occurrence and great excitement pervails. The victims are mostly daughters of miners.

Judge Hoadly's Health.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Governor-elect Hoadly of Ohio and his wife arrived here last night. His visit is for the purpose of consulting his physician in regard to his health, which he has not yet fully regained. His physician stated to-night that he had steadily improved since his visit here in September, and was now almost recovered. He was taking no medicine, but was striving to recuperate his system by absolute rest. A short ocean voyage has been talked of, but the Doctor stated that he did not consider it at all necessary. The Governor is expected to remain here about a week.

The Bridge Disaster.

TROY, N. Y., October 23.—The persons injured in the Fort Edward railway bridge disaster are all doing well and will probably recover. The bridge has been considered unsafe for some time and it is alleged that the trackmaster was notified that a stringer had given away. The company say that much heavier engines and trains passed over the bridge during Lake George travel this summer. The coroner's jury is investigating the accident.

Frozen Manitoba Wheat.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Grain dealers who have reliable connection in Manitoba say that about one half the wheat crop in that province has been injured by the frost. The damage will average about 25 per cent. The sound wheat is worth $1.20 per bushel here, and average samples of injured grain are held at from 90 cents to $1. A considerable quantity of the latter is offered here, one lot amounting to 50,000 bushels.

Sensational Shooting Affair.

CHANUTE, Kas., Oct. 23.—A sensational shooting affair occurred on the street at 8 o'clock last night. Ranz Waters, a well known young man, shot R. J. Barklay, who had been paying his address to Waters' sister against the wish of the family. Waters having heard that Barklay had maligned his sister, shot him in the back. Barklay will die. Waters was arrested and jailed amid great excitement.

The Iron and Steel Interests.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 23.—The condition of the iron and steel business here at present is fairly good and from indications there will be plenty of work for some time to come. All the mills are in operation and many of them have been running on double time. The manufacturers report an abundance of orders, but everything is very closely margined

A Government Training School for Sitka.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 21.—The Connecticut State Teachers' Association yesterday adopted a resolution urging upon Congress the importance of an appropriation for the establishment of an industrial training school at Sitka similar to those at Hampton and Carlisle. A copy of the resolution will be submitted to the Secretary of the Interior.

Mrs. Boxer's Suit for a Quarter of a Million.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—The largest action entered here for a long time was recorded yesterday, Mrs. Boxer, wife of Capt. Boxer of the Royal Navy, being plaintiff against Frederick Judah. The amount claimed in $226,666 and was willed to Mrs. Boxer by her late uncle.

HOW THEY DO IT.

The Manner in which Newspapers Obtain their Most Interesting Reading—An Excellent Illustration of it.

Few positions in journalism are so important to a good newspaper, and yet so easily filled as that of the "exchange editor." To those who are unsophisticated into the workings of a large newspaper, it may be stated that the "exchange editor" is a man who uses the scissors and paste-pot. All newspapers of metropolitan pretentions have exchange lists of hundreds of papers. They send their paper to all the leading journals in the country, besides to a number of country papers in the immediate vicinity. Every one of these papers are read by the exchange editor, and if he finds something novel and interesting, he cuts it and credits to the paper from which it is taken. When he gets a number of these clippings he hands them to the managing editor to make a selection from. The latter chooses the most interesting of them, and those are published in the paper the following day.

Some newspapers use more clippings than others. In a large city like New York, where interesting news is plenty, few are needed, as the columns are well crowded without them. In Cincinnati, St. Louis and cities further west the papers will be well filled with them, and there is no mistake but that they make mighty good reading.

For instance, the following entertaining story, which is from the Pittsburgh Disatch, a journal which is extensively copied, has been going the rounds of the newspapers:

"Very seldom do we read of an actual case of recovery, where hope had altogether been lost, to parallel that which was Monday investigated by a Dispatch reporter who had heard in various quarters persons talking to their friends of a cure, seemingly little short of marvelous, that had been performed. The plain facts in the case referred to, without exaggeration, are these, as they were learned from the mother of the young man, his pastor and other persons well known in the community:

"William Lincoln Curtis is the name of the young man in question. He is now employed at H. K. Porter & Co.'s locomotive works in Pittsburgh, Pa. A year ago he resided with his mother on Grant street. About that time he went to bed one evening with a violent pain in his shoulder, the result, he thought, of a cold. The next morning the shoulder was greatly swollen, the pain was intense, and aches were felt all through his system. His case was speedily developed into a violent form of chronic rheumatism, among the first notable features of which was the paralysis of his left arm.

"He gradually grew worse, and in a few months the elbow and knee joints, and both ankles became enormously enlarged. In March last the cheek bones began to enlarge, and upon his left side particularly, spreading his face out of all resemblance to his former self. The pain in all his joints became intense; fever, with its deteriorating effects, was now added, and he became rapidly reduced to the semblance of a skeleton, while vitality reached its lowest possible condition, and his sufferings were of such an indescribable character that those who most loved him sometimes thought it would be better if he was called away. At this time physicians well known in Pittsburgh informed his parents that he was in imminent danger of total paralysis, and directly afterwards they announced to his sorrowful mother that they could give no hopes of recovery.

"The young man finally commenced taking that wonderful medicine, PERUNA. Almost at once the good effects were perceptible. In two weeks quite a change for the better was perceptible by all the friends of the invalid. In six weeks almost all the enlargements had been reduced completely, while in spirits and strength the patient was quite as well as he had ever been in his life. Nearly three weeks ago he resumed work as a machinist at his old place, able to perform as much labor as ever in his life.

"The mother of Willie Curtis, in stating all these facts, said: 'Indeed, I cannot look upon the cure much less than as a miracle. I do not hesitate in sounding the praise of PERUNA, and in recommending it to all my friends. My heart is very full of gratitude, for my boy's recovery was really like that of one snatched from the jaws of death.'

"The pastor of the church where the young man attended Sabbath school was visited, and he readily confirmed the facts of the deformed bones, the emaciated condition from disease, and of the doctors having given him up. The young man entered the minister's house with the reporter, and the pastor, who had not seen him since his recovery, was greatly surprised at his improved condition. Said he, 'If he had not spoken I would not have known him.'"

An Editor Shooting Two Assailants.

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky., Oct. 22.—On Saturday night Charles McCartney was attacked on the street by James T. Fenwell and Frank L. Thompson, who were aggrieved by publications in McCartney's newspaper. They used stones as weapons. McCartney drew his revolver and shot them both. Fenwell died yesterday morning, and it is thought that Thompson is mortally wounded. McCartney has been arrested.

Have You Asked Your Physician About It?

"Yes." Well what does he say? "That it is only another of the thousand and-one medical humbugs." Is he helping you? "No." Losing ground steadily? "I'm afraid so." Not as well this year as last? "Very much worse." Then take a friend's advice and write to Drs. Starkey & Palen, of 1109 Girard street, Philadelphia, giving them a plain statement of your case. Ask them if they have ever treated a similar case with their Compound Oxygen, and if, in their judgment, there is hope of your deriving any real and permanent benefit from its use. Ask them also to send you a report of some cases like yours which they have treated successfully. All this will cost you nothing, as these physicians make no charge for consultations. If the evidence they furnish is not satisfactory, then the matter can end, but if they should put you in possession of facts and evidence going to show that thousands of persons suffering from chronic diseases far worse, it may be, than yours, have been restored to comparative good health during the past thirteen years by the use of Compound Oxygen, the trifling effort of writing may prove the means whereby you will find a permanent relief from suffering, for which you will never cease to be profoundly thankful.

If, however, you are not ready to consult them at present, drop a postal card and ask them to send you their Treatise on Compound Oxygen. The information in regard to their new treatment which you will gain from this treatise will enable you to judge of the chances in your favor which it offers.

Hop Bitters.

Loss and Gain.

CHAPTER I.

"I was taken sick a year ago
With bilious fever."

"My doctor pronounced me cured but I got sick again, with terrible pains in my back and sides, and I got so bad I

Could not move!

I shrunk!

From 228 lbs. to 120! I had been doctoring for my liver, but it did me no good. I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters. Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles I am not only as sound as a sovereign but weigh more than I did before. To Hop Bitters I owe my life."

R. FITZPATRICK.
Dublin, June 6, '81.

CHAPTER II.

"Malden, Mass., Feb. 1, 1880. Gentlemen—I suffered with attacks of sick headache."

Neuralgia, female trouble, for years in the most terrible and excruciating manner.

No medicine or doctor could give me relief or cure until I used Hop Bitters.

"The first bottle
Nearly cured me;"
The second made me as well and strong as when a child,
"And I have been so to this day."
My husband was an invalid for twenty years with a serious
"Kidney, liver and urinary complaint,
Pronounced by Boston's best physicians—
Incurable!"
Seven bottles of your bitters cured him, and I know of the "Lives of eight persons"
In my neighborhood that have been saved by your bitters.
And many more are using them with great benefit.
"They almost
Do miracles!" —MRS. E. D. SLACK.

HOW TO GET SICK.—Expose yourself day and night; eat too much without exercise; work too hard without rest; doctor all the time; take all the vile nostrums advertised, and then you will want to know how to get well, which is answered in three words—Take Hop Bitters!

The Building Operations of a Year

Another cycle has rolled around since we have made an estimate of the building operations in Bellefonte, and as we glance back through the year and see graceful structures reared here and there where there were only vacant lots we can well realize that our town is materially much richer than it was twelve months ago. Because of the fact that so many large buildings have not been erected the past summer as was the case in the summer of 1882 the grand total of value is not so great, but it was necessary to build homes for the added population that those enterprises attracted, and these constitute the greater part of the estimate which we shall now make. We do not claim this to be even approximately complete, but it is as near as we can arrive at. The total is something over $60,000.

The Phoenix Planing mill are the most extensive contractors for buildings. During the summer they have erected or have now in process of erection seventeen dwelling houses. They built an addition to the Nail Works and a large pot room and a ware room at the Glass Works. They have the contract for the Presbyterian Sabbath-school building which will be completed by May of next year. The total value of these is about $38,000.

Next in value perhaps is the Spring Creek bridge—$7,500.

Ranking next in point of value is the new residence of A. G. Curtin, Jr., on Curtin street—about $5,000.

Mr. Harry Landis is erecting two double houses at an estimated cost of $3,200.

Gerberich, Hale & Co. have built an extensive addition to their flouring mill, which, including the dam erected by them, approximate $3,000.

Mr. Wm. V. Emery is erecting two houses at a cost of about $3,000.

Mr. James McClain is erecting a house on Beaver street for $1,200.

We have had no opportunity to secure an estimate on the foundation walls of the new Catholic church, nor on Edward Brown's new building on Logan street, but place them each at $2,000, or both about $4,000.

The car works dam was renewed last summer at a cost of $1,000.

This does not represent more than one-half the increased value of the buildings in Bellefonte, for in scores of houses extensive repairs have been made of which no note is taken.

The only reduction from the above which it would be fair to make is the destruction by the spring flood. Fire has not, so far as we are aware, destroyed a dollar's worth during the year. When we close up accounts for the year 1883 the balance in our favor promises to exceed $60,000.

A GLANCE INTO THE FUTURE.

While there are no certain prospects that any large manufacturing establishments will be erected next year, involving large outlays of money, the indications are quite certain that a large number of dwellings, such as are greatly needed, will be built. Four or five houses will be built on Beaver street and ten or a dozen in the vicinity of the nail works. We have also recently heard some talk of the erection of another glass manufactury.

The Methodists in Altoona.

The district assembly of the Methodist Episcopal church at Altoona on Tuesday of last week was as interesting as the preceding sessions. We notice that clergymen from this county participated in all the discussions. During the morning session Rev. W. A. Carver, of Snow Shoe, made a well prepared address on "The Class Meeting." He was followed by Rev. G. D. Penepacker, of Bellefonte, who valued the class meeting very highly, and set the example of attendance by attending it himself.

Part of the afternoon session was devoted to an address by Rev. W. W. Reese, of Milesburg, on "The Benevolences of the Church and the extent to which they are met." He made two special points. 1. They are far from being met in a manner commensurate with their merits and importance. 2. They are not sustained in proportion to the ability of the church. The points were ably enforced and illustrated. The speaker was particularly severe on the stingy souls who mourn the frequency of collections in the Methodist Episcopal church.

—Mr. and Mrs. Myers, who now reside in Rochester, N. Y., but who formerly lived in this place, arrived in town on Tuesday, the 22d, on a sad errand—to bury their infant child. The funeral cortege wended its way to Union cemetery, where the interment took place. They have several other children buried in this place. It will be remembered that Mr. Myers was at one time proprietor of the Bush House.

Talks by Centre County Clergymen

What is known as the Altoona district assembly, Central Pennsylvania Conference, M. E. church, held its first session in the Eighth Avenue church, in that city on Monday night. The Tribune reports the proceedings, from which we extract the part taken by Centre county clergymen, knowing it will be interesting to many of our readers:

The first speaker was Rev. George Penepacker, of Bellefonte. His theme was "The Nature and Necessity of Revivals." In its simplest definition a revival is an extraordinary manifestation of divine power. The word implies somewhat of spiritual declension. When the prophet touched the son of the widow of Nain he revived. Nothing that has had no existence can be revived. A sinner can scarcely be said to be revived, but a weak Christian may be brought back to the life which he has almost lost. But by revival we usually understand not only the reviving of the church but also going out after those who have not known the power of God's love. The speaker said he had been in the ministry seventeen years and had seen 1,700 souls converted under his preaching. As to the necessity of revivals, you might as well ask what is the necessity of an interest in Christ, of the preaching of the word. There can be no true church life, no active, aggressive church without revivals. A revival is the one important work of the church. A church in which revival power is unknown will soon be a dead church. The speaker couldn't form a conception of an effective ministry that does not look forward to the manifestation of revival power. The word of God effectively preached to a receptive congregation will always bear fruit. The pre-eminent importance of revival work was strongly emphasized by the speaker.

"The Proper care of Probationers', was discussed by Rev. J. B. Polsgrove, of Philipsburg. The pastor and the leaders are mainly responsible for the care of the probationers. The latter, who are sub-pastors, should be selected with great care. They should be men who have time to visit their members at their homes as well as lead them in class. The young converts should be assigned to classes at once. The pastor should become acquainted with them and visit them at their homes. Jesus visited the homes of the people. Paul went from house to house. A fair proportion of the pulpit teaching should be for the babes in Christ. The young Christian should be encouraged and guided into a course of religious reading, including the Bible, the publications of the book concern and the papers of the church. Special reference was made to a series of tracts for young converts. They should be taken into the Sunday school if not already members. The pastor should deliver lectures for their benefit and the church should take them by the hand. We regret that our limits prevent a fuller outline of this able and instructive address.

Lock Haven's Girls.

The young man of the Lock Haven Daily Journal got real mad on Monday, the 22d, and wrote the following:

The witty (?) editor of the Bellefonte News has no less than three allusions to Lock Haven girls in Saturday's paper. That's because our young ladies are handsome, fair and funny, while those of Bellefonte are so confounded ugly that it is necessary for them to have $5,000 in their own name before they are marriageable. A young man in Bellefonte advertised last week for a wife, but that was the condition.

Now, we never said the Lock Haven girls were ugly; we wouldn't be so ungallant as that. We mildly insinuated that they have big feet and radiant auburn hair. We think that they are genuine houris. Who knows, perhaps Juno had red hair and Hebe was celebrated for her extensive understanding. It is well known that Lock Haven has been rendered so flat merely by the phenomenal size of her favorite daughters' feet and a scientist positively asserts that the matchless brightness of the heavens on Sunday evening, the 14th, was caused by the sun's reflection as it kissed farewell Lock Haven's divinity with the auburn locks. You have been so rude as to assert that the Bellefonte girls are ugly and they will remember you for it. It is true that most young men prefer the sylph-like creatures whom we have in Bellefonte, but the true criterion of female beauty has not yet been decided upon. But remember if it hadn't been for your big-footed girls the fair Susquehanna river might never have flowed in your direction and consequently where would your lumber interests have been? Thank your lucky stars for your big-footed girls. They are excellent if they remain in their place, and when we want some of our hills flattened down we'll send our $5,000 man after one of them.

Boys' Branch.

Monday evening of last week the regular meeting of the Boys' Branch was held, with about 75 boys in attendance. The opening exercises were of a religious character and were conducted by J. W. Gephart, after which captains were assigned to their various companies. The Superintendent, Mr. Gephart, desiring to systemize the work more fully for the coming year, offered the following: "Resolved, That the first Monday of every month be occupied by the W. C. T. U.; the second Monday by a practical talk given by some of our citizens, and the third Monday be devoted to the exercises of a boys' literary society." The resolution was adopted and Morris Swartz, Gilbert Beaver and George Jackson were appointed a committee to make a programme for this purpose. The fourth Monday evening of each month will be used as the Branch may see proper. Thanks are due to the superintendent for the active interest he shows in the Branch. After repeating the Lord's Prayer, the Branch was dismissed.

—A party of railroad men on the fall tour of inspection arrived in Bellefonte Wednesday morning. The train in which they travel consists of two passenger cars and two inspection cars, one in front and the other at the rear of the train. These inspection cars are peculiar in construction. They are entirely open at the end and inside the seats range one above another like the chairs in a public hall, permitting all to have a view of the line. The cars are not handsome, but doubtless admirably answer the purpose for which they are constructed. From here the party went to Snow Shoe. Superintendent Blair was among the number, the others consisting of the superintendents of divisions. They seemed to feel the chilling atmosphere quite keenly. We noticed paper blanks in the hands of many of them, upon which we suppose they were taking notes.

A Word About Glass.

A few days ago the largest sized cylinder of glass ever turned out of the Bellefonte Glass Works was blown by Mr. William Culp, the same skillful workman who blew the large, double-thick cylinder recorded several weeks ago. His latest achievement in this line measured 43 by 66 inches and is double strength. We believe it was intended to fill an order from Baltimore. Mr. Frank Wescott was the gatherer.

While we are on this subject, it may be well to express our pleasure and congratulation at the fact that the men employed at these works average higher in the amount of work done than any other in the State. It is worth while being a glass blower when we know that their wages are as high as $40 per week, but such is the fact. The other workmen do not average quite so high, but all find it profitable.

A Delicate Surgical Operation.

On Monday, the 22d, Dr. H. K. Hoy, of this place, performed a delicate and skillful surgical operation in removing an epitheliomatous formation from the left cheek of Mr. Samuel S. Tolbert, of near Unionville. The ulcer or tumor, or whatever it may be called, made its appearance about nine months ago and had been getting worse ever since. He consulted Dr. Hoy in reference to it who advised its removal. Neither ether or chloroform were taken by Mr. Tolbert, but he bore the painful operation very bravely and the wound is now healing. This will probably prove to be one more test of the great skill manifested by Dr. Hoy in surgery.

—Lines in memory of youngest daughter of T. and T. Murray, of Snow Shoe Intersection:

Nellie, thou art gone forever. Oh! can it be,
That we no more thy face shall see?
The cradle stands there as before,
But no dear baby any more;
And oh how sad and drear our heart,
When we from our darling had to part.

The vacant place where her form has been
Was where our darling knew no sin,
But her voice is hushed and her grave is filled
And in our home fond hearts are chilled;
Tho' we must live on just as of yore
And dream of our loved one gone before.

Our darling Nellie is safe from harm
As she sleeps in the Saviour's loving arms;
But in that home on the other shore
There will be parting there no more,
And is our sorrow we can tell
Our Father doeth all things well.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold, a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup, and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1.00. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cts. Sold by John Harris.

—Elsewhere we allude to an elopement which occurred at Mill Hall, Jefferson Elder and Mrs. Lloyd, both married and having families, going off clandestinely with each other. Elder returned on Tuesday evening and was arrested. He treats the matter as if it were intended for a joke on Mr. Lloyd, saying that Mrs. Lloyd ran away merely to test the affection of her husband as she expected him to pursue her, which he didn't. Elder says that Mrs. Lloyd went to Lewisburg to visit her son-in-law and will quickly return when she hears that her action is considered a serious matter.

—Many persons are attracted to the Snow Shoe freight depot to see the immense quantity of wooden pipe intended for steam heating purposes, and also the process of preparing the iron and wooden pipes before being put under ground.

BE CAREFUL! The genuine "Rough on Corns" is made only by E. S. Wells (proprietor of "Rough on Rats") and has laughing face of a man on labels. 15 and 25c. bottles.

—According to the Harrisburg Patriot, one more inspecting party is to start on its travels over the Pennsylvania railroad on the 6th prox. These inspecting parties are becoming rather numerous.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by indigestion, constipation, dizziness, loss of appetite, coming up of the food, yellow skin, when for 75 cts. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by John Harris.

—Several robberies of more or less importance have been perpetrated in Altoona of late.

PRESENT POWER.

To-Morrow a Long Way Off When Help is Wanted To-Day.

Comfort is never in a hurry. Pain and distress are in hot haste. It is to the "friend in need"—the friend who does something now—that the old adage pays the compliment of being a "Friend indeed." That they do not keep the sufferer in suspense is the salient excellence of BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS. The plasters of other days—whether porous or otherwise—said—"Wait until to-morrow; we can promise nothing on the spur of the moment." But pain unrelieved, like hope deferred, sickeneth the heart sick. Benson's Plasters act on application. They penetrate, soothe, warm and heal, containing, as they do, chemical and medicinal agents of the highest efficiency. Their motto is now, and the genuine have the word CAPCINE cut in the middle of each plaster. Price 25 cents. Seabury & Johnson, Chemists, New York. 15 29-1

—The Herdic coach line between Birmingham and Tyrone has proved a failure and been discontinued.

—Adam and Philip Stover have purchased the farm of Ben Stover, on Pine creek, in Haines township, at $3,300.

—H. M. Swartz, of Millheim, raised a turnip of the Siamese Twin variety that weighs 3 pounds and 10 ounces.

—There seems to be enough wooden pipe in the Snow Shoe freight yard to extend the steam heat along every street in town.

—The Philipsburg Journal states that the L. H. Journal is offered for sale, a statement which we are inclined to doubt.

William Leathers, who moved some time ago from Howard to the State of Kansas, is now visiting his friends in the former place.

—This rain! this rain! It rather interfered with the attendance on the Luther memorial services. Now, if it had only been a Baptist gathering.

—Rev. Dr. Wells will conduct meetings in the Presbyterian church every day of this week at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 7.30 in the evening.

—It must have seemed very "flat" to the readers of the Watchman to read in it that quotation from the L.H. Journal after it had already appeared in the Daily News.

—Instead of only one house being erected at Struble's Ore Bank, two are to be built. We shall soon expect to hear of a small village springing up in that direction.

—Snook & Geisweit's shingle mill in Brush Valley was destroyed by fire on Thursday, the 18th. About 80,000 shingles were burned. The loss exceeds $1,000.

—Artiste Augustine says John Wagner's wild turkey had mush in its crop, and John retorts by saying that the Artiste has mush in his head. This evens things up all around.

—A Bishop street girl wrote to her adorer—"Don't come to see me any more just yet, John, for father has been having his boots half soled and two rows of nails around the toes."

—Rev. J. M. Palmer, a former pastor of the A. M. E. church of this place, is now officiating in the same capacity in Williamsport, and was recently tendered a grand donation by his flock in that city.

—Philipsburg has about twenty-five dwellings and business establishments that patronize the steam heating company. Clearfield has forty and Bellefonte has over one hundred. We're ahead in the march of progress.

—Mr. Louis Ettinger, an Aaronburg boy, now residing in Milton, is to be presented with a $125 silver cornet as a testimonial of esteem from the Presbyterian congregation of Milton, because of his faithfulness and ability as a member of the choir.

—John F. Potter, Esq., lost a pocket book containing valuable papers on Thursday at Centre Hall, but did not discover his loss until, after reaching Bellefonte, a telephone message from the former place informed him that it had been found and was safe.

—"Why is the Legislature in session all the time?" enquired an elderly lady recently; "I thought it was to meet only every second year, but it is in session continually." "It is a Democratic legislature," we replied "and when they get a $10-per-day job they keep at it."

—Mr. Isaac Thomas and family will not move into their new house until next month. Substantial stone walks have been put down all around the house and everything seems to be in first class finished condition, but the fastidious owner is constantly discovering something new to be done.

—The boys who persist in turning out the gas, and committing a nuisance at the bottom of the stairs as they go out from the Y. M. C. A. rooms in the evenings, are warned against repeating the offense. You will be treated kindly, boys, while you behave, but there is trouble in store for evil-doers.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sands made preparations for about forty banqueters, on Friday, but as less than half that many were present there are immense quantities of turkey, chicken, cakes, et ceteras, remaining. It is true that the sixteen banqueters endeavored to do the work of forty, but there are some things that are impossible—even a clergyman's capacity is sometimes reached.

Remembering Luther.

Friday afternoon was the occasion of the address by John G. Morris, D. D., LL. D., on the life and labors of Dr. Martin Luther, the reformer of the Sixteenth century. The Court House was filled with an appreciative audience who were delighted with the reverend gentleman's address as well as with the music by the choir and band and other accessories.

In the evening the audience began to gather an hour before the time appointed for the beginning of the service. By 7.30 o'clock every seat was uncomfortably filled, hundreds of chairs in the aisles and within the bar were occupied, every window contained a half dozen or so of boys, the aisles were thronged with people who were straining their necks and eyes in search of a seat, and scores of disappointed people were turned away.

The Bellefonte Orchestra was present as well as a very large choir and the Zion band. The first selection was rendered by the band and was sweet and subdued. The orchestra followed with one of their exceedingly beautiful selections in which the consummate skill of the musicians was exhibited in a high degree. Miss Ohnmacht presided at the piano. Low and sweet like the ripple of a brooklet it began, then would burst into triumphal strains and then would die away like the low sobbing of the willows after a summer shower, and ever and anon would be heard a few bars of peculiarly ravishing and sweet music which would suggest that they had their origin in fairyland—like diamonds in a chain of gold. This, to us, was the chief event of the evening. The choir rendered several selections in an excellent manner. Miss Ella Rhone presided gracefully at the organ and also at the piano during the rendering of "Luther's Battle Hymn."

The first speaker was Rev. Heilman, of Lock Haven, who spoke of the chief characteristics of Luther, which had been suggested to him by a Methodist divine as boldness, faith and sympathy, and he thought that a careful analysis of Luther's character whould prove the suggestion to be correct.

Rev. John Tomlinson, of Aaronsburg, was introduced as a large man with a large heart who would speak to a vast audience on a great subject. He introduced his remarks with two of the wonderful and absurd stories which are sometimes told concerning the great reformer. Then he enumerated valuable truths and lessons which have come down to us from the times and labors of Luther. He considers Luther's shorter catechism the most valuable work extant next to the Bible and urged parents to teach it to their children with the assurance that any child thoroughly drilled in that would never apostatize from the Lutheran faith.

Dr. Morris then entertained and instructed the audience with his usual ability, his object being, as he stated, to gather up the morsels left by the preceding speakers and treat the audience to Luther pie and Luther pudding. He regretted to find it necessary to state to the audience that many of the awe-inspiring tales told of Luther were not true at all—for instance, that Luther was born while his mother was attending a fair at Eisleben, as his parents had lived there several years before Luther' birth; and that Luther had hurled an inkstand at a blue-bottle fly in mistake for the devil. Dr. Morris' remarks were forcible, emphatic and humorous. After his address the meeting closed.

Death of Rev. Elijah Chambers.

The gentleman whose name appears in the above title died at his home at Buffalo Run at an early hour Saturday morning. We have alluded to his illness on several previous occasions and have, with his many friends, hoped against hope that a change for the better would take place. But, after a long, useful and honorable life, his earthly existence terminated and he was taken home to his reward.

Rev. Chambers was a minister of the M. E. church, He entered the Virginia Conference when a mere boy, at the age of 14 years, and, we believe, has been in the service of the church ever since. He was 76 years of age. The deep concern manifested by his friends during his illness, the many wishes for his welfare and the expressions of respect for his memory which we have heard since his death all testify to the high esteem in which he was held.

His children have reached maturity and are all well known. One son is the owner of a livery in this place and another is reading law. A daughter is married to Mr. William Larrimer. His wife survives him.

The funeral was held at Gray's church last Saturdap morning at 10 o'clock.

—Protracted religious meetings are raging in Howard and vicinity.

The New England Tea Party.

We give below the organization made under the auspices of the Presbyterian Mite Society for the New England Tea Party to be given on the 3d Thursday and Friday of November, the 15th and 16th. The Catholic Church.

Last Saturday we went in quest of Rev. Father McArdle, the pleasant pastor of the Catholic church in this place, and found him at the site of the new church edifice. The excavation has extended far up the hill into the cemetery and we commented on the fact to the reverend gentleman. "Surely, the church building will not extend this far," was what we said. "Oh, yes, it will," he replied. Then he informed us that the distance was 120 feet and that the width will be 60 feet. The building will be simply immense. We also learned that several graves had been unearthed (one that morning). "How old is the cemetery?" we again interrogated, to which Father McArdle replied that it is older than the church (which is 60 years) and perhaps as old as the first settlement in this part of the county, extending over one hundred years back. Mr. Jesse Stewart, the contractor for the foundation, said that that part of the work will be completed in about ten days and then future work upon the building will be discontinued until next year.

Kicked to Death by a Horse.

An unusually sad accident occurred at Farmer's Mills on Tuesday, October 23. Mr. Jacob Hagen, a highly esteemed young man of that place, was engaged at an early hour in the morning in adjusting some part of the harness over the horse's head, standing in front of the animal to do so. Suddenly the horse kicked Mr. Hagen with great violence in the stomach, inflicting injuries which soon proved fatal. A physician was summoned who thought that Mr. Hagen might possibly recover, but he died about 11 o'clock the same morning. The funeral occurred on Thursday.

The deceased was about 25 years of age. He was one of twins, his brother now being married and having a family of his own to support, leaving Jacob the only support of his mother, who is a widow. He is described as an unusually dutiful son and the anguish of his mother is indescribable.

—McCoy & Linn have recently made very extensive repairs to the dam at their works, putting on new sheeting and adding other improvements that were necessary. They are now making repairs to their wire mill. These improvements necessitated a cessation of operations for about one week, but they will soon start up again and will be able to do more satisfactory work than ever.

Religious Services on Sunday.

On Sunday morning the visiting Lutheran clergyman filled many of the pulpits of the town. Qute a large congregation was attracted to the Lutheran church to listen to Rev. Morris, D. D., who drew a parallel between Luther and Josiah, the condition of religious sentiment, the finding of the Scriptures and the reformation which followed each of these occurrences being surprisingly similar. The analogy was not forced, but seemed to be an exact repetition of history.

Rev. J. A. Koser, in the M. E. church, also delivered an historical sermon relating to Luther and the time of the reformation.

Rev. S. H. Henry in the Presbyterian church officiated to the entire edification of that congregation.

Rev. John Hewitt, who returned from the West on Saturday evening, officiated in the Episcopal church both morning and evening, delivering sermons on each occasion in his usual eloquent and earnest manner. In the morning his topic was "Love," in which he urged that as is the love of God to man so should the children of God love one another. In the evening he preached on "An Entrance into the Kingdom of Heaven," in which his views seemed to be extremely liberal, as he believes that there are many in all church organizations will be among the saved and there are those whose names are not on any church books who will be admitted among the redeemed.

In the evening Rev. Dr. Wells preached an eloquent sermon in the Presbyterian church, and promises to continue the services every evening of this week. He has been very successful in other places and we hope he will be equally successful here.

The children's meeting in the Court House at 3 o'clock p. m. on Sunday was largely attended. Addresses were made by several clergymen.

Resolutions of Thanks.

At a meeting held in the Lutheran church Sunday evening after the conclusion of the regular service the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, We were materially aided and assisted in making our Luther memorial meeting the grand success that it was by persons from the different denominations in Bellefonte; therefore

Resolved, That we, the members of St. John's Lutheran church of Bellefonte, hereby tender our thanks to all those who thus gave us their assistance in making the memorial meeting, to the memory of Martin Luther, the Great Reformer, a success; and especially to the Misses Mary and Sarah Bradley of the P. E. church, Miss Sallie McGinley, Mrs. Abram Stover, of the M. E. church, and E. M. Blanchard, Esq., and James D. Gordon, of the Presbyterian church.

Resolved, That we highly appreciate the action of the Commissioners of Centre county in granting us the use of the Court House, and the services rendered by the Zion band and Bellefonte Orchestra for their soul-inspiring music, and we hereby tender them our thanks for their ready response to our invitation.

Resolved, That our heartfelt thanks are due to Dr. J. G. Morris and Rev. S. Henry for their able, learned and instructive addresses, and to the members of the Northern Conference for their attendance and hearty cooperation.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Daily News and weekly papers of Centre Co., to whom we also tender our thanks for the liberal allowance of their columns for our use.

A Sad Accident.

From the Philipsburg Journal: A young man named Richard Thornton was killed by a fall of coal at Campbell's mine, near this city, on Monday morning, the 15th. He was working for his father, and when about ready for a blast his father told him not to "bear in" any more, but to keep away as it was dangerous to do so, but in spite of all his protesting he continued to work on, until it gave way and a large quantity of coal fell on his head, literally mashing it. He was aged about 14 years, and was followed to his final resting place by a large concourse of sympathizing friends and relatives on Wednesday.

—Great Heavens! Is there to be no end to the earthquakes and accidents, the storms and the shipwrecks, the murders and the crimes of 1883?—Watchman.

Oh yes, there will be an end to them, but the greatest is yet to come. The date will be on November 6. It wont be exactly an accident; but it will be an earthquake, and a storm and the completest shipwreck you ever experienced. Whether it will be a murder or not depends on your vitality. The Democratic ship is fated. Prepare to put on sackcloth and ashes.

Personal Pencilings.

Yoty Kramer a well known citizen of Millheim, is quite ill.

Monte Ward, of base ball fame, is reading law in Columbia College.

Prof. Jackson, of the State College, was in Bellefonte on Wednesday.

Mrs. Shortley, of Williamsport, is a guest in the family of Mr. William H. Humes.

Mr. W. W. Moyer departed on Saturday for a short visit among friends at Powelton.

Dr. Bates, one of the prominent citizens residing near Gatesburg, visited Bellefonte on Friday

Miss Agnes S. Lose, daughter of Rev. Henry Lose, of Michigan, is visiting friends in Millheim.

Mr. Osborne Whippo, one of Loveville's excellent citizens, spent a few hours in Bellefonte on Saturday.

Mr. Stine, of Tyrone, who has been on a business mission in this county, departed for his home Monday morning.

Rev. Henry, one of the Lutheran ministers, can tell some odd stories regarding his experience with newspaper reporters.

Mr. John McDermott is lending a helping hand in building the structure on Lamb street for the steam heating company.

Rev. Dr. Morris is said to be eighty years of age. If he is not a fine specimen of a well preserved old gentleman we never saw one.

Miss Helen Oberndorf, one of the particularly pleasing young ladies of Baltimore is a guest of Miss Fannie Goldsmith, on Linn street.

Mr. Edward Gallagher particularly desires that everybody about Spring creek bridge will ask him how the stone work is progressing.

Harry Bush is a member of the engineer corps on the B., N. and L. railroad. He finds it more congenial than manipulating the yard stick.

Mrs. Lyon and her daughter, Miss Tillie, returned from Philadelphia on Monday evening, the 23d. They were in that city about three weeks.

Miss Kate Jackson is now entertaining a very handsome and accomplished lady friend in the person of Miss Willie Gordon Benton, of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dayton, of Williamsport, who are decided favorites with Bellefonte people, are guests at the hospitable mansion of John Ardell, Jr.

Rev. Father McArdle, of the Catholic church, spent part of last week in Renovo, where he assisted in the "forty hours devotions" celebrated in the church of that place.

Oscar Smith, a former clerk in the Bush House, has been spending several days in town recently. He is now living in Rochester, N. Y., and will spend the winter in North Carolina.

Dr. Rhone, H. Y. Stitzer and other Lutherans seemed to be in their element Friday evening and were as much delighted with the crowd, the speeches, the music and the general success of the entire performance as if each one of them had been elected President of the United States.

Miss Chestie Krape, accompanied by four fair young ladies, stepped into our office on Saturday afternoon to view the operations of the press in printing the News of that day. We regret that we do not remember the names of all Miss Krape's fair friends. Two of them were the Misses Campbell, and another was Miss Hunter, but the fourth we forget. Ladies are always welcome.

Sudden Death of Mrs. David Kline.

The numerous friends of the lady whose name is recorded in the above title will be shocked to learn of her death which occurred on Tuesday night, the 11th, about 9 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Kline lived on the Beaver mill road, about 2½ miles from Julian, in Huston township. They had retired for the night when Mrs. Kline complained of difficulty in breathing. Mr. Kline arose and did what he could to administer relief, but without avail, as Mrs. Kline expired in about fifteen minutes.

The deceased was widely known and highly esteemed. Mr. Kline, the sorrowing husband, is a one-armed soldier. He has two brothers—William and John—employed at McCoy & Linn's forge. The family and relatives have our sympathy.

The funeral was held at 2 p. m. on Thursday.

—Among the pleasant events at noon on Friday was a sumptuous banquet tendered to the visiting Lutheran clergymen by that prince of caterers and whole-souled gentleman, Mr. J. H. Sands. We tried as well as we could to crawl in under the canvas, but as that was impossible we left those hungry ministers to stow away the cakes and pies as a minister only can do to perfection.

A Wedding at Milesburg.

The pleasant little borough of Milesburg was the scene of a wedding at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Cupid had, in this instance, united the hearts of Mr. Wilson Moore, of Missouli Montana Territory, and Miss Frank McEwen, of Milesburg, in those bonds of love which cannot be severed, and at the time mentioned Rev. W. O. Wright, the excellent pastor of the Presbyterian church, cemented the tie with a solemn and impressive wedding ceremony. The happy couple took the 5 o'clock train for Clearfield, whence they departed on Friday for Missouli, the the home of the groom, where we hope happiness and prosperity await them.

Four Items.

Rev. W. A. Ridge, of Eagleville, recently immersed seven persons in Dick's Run, four miles west of Unionville. Glad to hear of the growth of his church.

The Howard band visited Eagleville on Friday evening, the 19th. Grand music and very genteel young men.

Robert Hall, an old and well known citizen of Union township, was buried on Thursday, the 11th, in the beautiful cemetery near Unionville.

Mr. Daniel Bechdel trapped a very fine bear up Beech Creek a few days since.

An Idle Furnace Leased.

A Pittsburg firm has leased the Pennsylvania furnace, located on the line of the Lewisburg Central and Tyrone railroad, in Franklin township, Huntingdon county, from Lyons & Co., the owners, and will put it into operation as soon as the necessary supplies of material can be obtained. Work has already been commenced in the ore mines, and wood-chopping and charcoal making will soon begin. This furnace has been idle for more than six years, and when started will leave but two—Mill Creek and Huntingdon—out of blast in all the county.—Altoona Tribune.

—Read the new advertisement for the Bee Hive. The enterprise of these stores is remarkable and they are constantly thronged by people from all parts of the county who are anxious to purchase the latest novelties of the season. The Bee Hive stores are, deservedly, one of the most popular establishments in town, and this is largely due to the enterprise, push and business energy of the Goldsmith Bros.

Death of Mrs. Edward Bubb.

About a week ago a death occurred in the neighborhood of Pine Grove Mills, Mrs. Edward Bubb dying of typhoid fever. She was a very worthy lady and will be greatly lamented by her family and friends, especially three little children who will henceforth lack a mother's care and attention.

—Cut-away coats and vests are becoming popular again with the ladies, and while in Philadelphia recently we saw several ladies wearing a head covering closely resembling a plug hat. Is there no law to prevent this sort of thing?

—Mr. John Kirchmeyer spent Sunday in Williamsport.
